States, Markets and European Integration

Full course description

The objective of this course is to provide students with a thorough knowledge of the process of European Integration. This course aims to provide students with up-to-date information concerning the process and the purposes of European integration, recent developments and the consequences for the future of the EU. In this way students are offered the knowledge that is necessary for a good understanding of the law of the European Union and of the European ‘Ius Commune’ that is presently being recreated. Within this course we offer ELS-students an historic, economic and political theory view on the process of European integration, with a particular focus on the most recent developments.

Course objectives

The students will be able to understand the European integration process in a more critical manner than the way it is frequently told in standard text books by comprehending the political and economic motivations behind European integration. Participants will acquire the necessary rudimentary economic tools to understand the economic arguments for integration. Moreover students will learn essential (political) integration theories that try to explain or predict European integration. Both economic theory and political integration theories will be applied to the European integration process and hence will provide a critical insight in the history of European integration as well as in current issues, as the Eurocrisis, the Brexit and the future of EU integration.

Comparative Contract Law

Full course description

This course offers an elaborate introduction to contract law from a comparative perspective. Students gain insight into the nature of a contract, the role it plays in society and the principles by which it is governed. The course is comparative throughout: German, English, French, Dutch law, as well as other jurisdictions, are used to illustrate the main principles that govern the law of contract. Topics being addressed include formation of contract, defects of consent, illegality and immorality, interpretation, unfair terms, general conditions and remedies for breach.

Course objectives

The objective of this course is to gain insight into the principles of contract law and to become aware of fundamental similarities and differences among the contract laws of Germany, England and Wales, France and the Netherlands. At the end of the course, students should be able to reason about the choices that different jurisdictions make in designing their contract laws. In addition to this, they should also be able to apply contract law rules to hypothetical cases and to discuss this application both in class and in a paper.

Prerequisites

None, other than that students were admitted to the European Law School English Language Track and passed the language test organised in Skills: Legal Research and Reasoning.

Comparative Government

Full course description

The course Comparative Government provides an introduction to the political and constitutional systems of the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and the Netherlands, and to the European Convention on Fundamental Rights. The aim of the course is for students to become acquainted with the basic features of the systems discussed and, at the same time, with overarching concepts of constitutional law. The course devotes attention to the functions of a state, different systems of government, separation of powers, democracy and electoral systems, government-parliament relations, federalism, bicameralism, constitutional review, as well as the issue of fundamental rights.

Course objectives

The student knows and understands the most important overarching concepts of constitutional law. He has a good knowledge of the main features of the constitutional systems of the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and the Netherlands, and of the system of fundamental-rights protection under the European Convention on Human Rights. He is able to compare different constitutional systems and draw critical conclusions from the analysis. He has practiced to independently conduct basic comparative research and to present his findings orally before his tutorial group.

Prerequisites

The course does not have any specific prerequisites.

Introduction to European Legal History

Full course description

This course provides an introduction to European legal history, from Roman Antiquity to the present day. The focus of this course is on ‘external legal history’, meaning the study of the law in its broad historical context, and including both the development of legal science and the ‘law in action’, that is, the practice of law. The history of specific legal concepts and institutions (i.e., internal legal history) is not a main focus of this course. However, attention will be paid to the historical development of contract law. The objective here is to place the concept of ‘contract’, which you will study using historical source material, into the more general context of external legal history. The following topics are dealt with:

- Roman Law in Antiquity;
- The rediscovery and study of Roman Law in Italy (12th – 15th century);
- Judicial Humanism in France (16th century);
- The development of law in the Republic of the Seven United Netherlands (17th century);
- Enlightenment and codification (18th/19th century); and
- German ‘Pandectism’ (19th century).

This course will also devote some attention to the development of law in England, which differs from that on the continent of Western Europe.

Course objectives

Facilitating students to reflect on the law from a European, comparative perspective. Providing knowledge on the origins of the differences between the European systems of law and their similarities.

Introduction to International and European Law

Full course description

This course consists of two parts: International law and European. There will be two tutorials and one lecture every week. The first part of the course will be devoted to issues of International law, such as sources and subjects of international law, international organizations (especially the UN), the law of treaties, the law of the sea, state responsibility, jurisdiction and immunities, human rights, peaceful settlement of disputes and the use of force. During the second part, European law matters will be dealt with such as the institutional structure and the nature of European law, competences and decision-making on EU-level, legal protection, the internal market, and competition law. Every week students have the opportunity to hand in an assignment on an international or European law subject. Students who have satisfactorily completed at least 6 of these assignments will receive a bonus point. Alternatively (still under consideration) students will follow an International law simulation in the course of which assignments have to be handed in.

Skills: Legal Research and Reasoning

Full course description

The course Skills: Legal Research and legal reasoning is part of the ELS Skills Track, together with Skills: Comparative Law and Legal Translation and Skills: Academic Legal Writing (year 2). The primary aim of Legal Research and Reasoning is to teach beginning students the skills they need in order to study successfully in the European Law School bachelor programme. This course focuses on the abilities which are expected of an undergraduate law student: the fundamentals of legal research and writing - logical and analytical thinking in a legal context - argumentation - working with legal provisions – public speaking/debating. As an additional help for beginning students, Legal Research and Reasoning also comprises a short PBL training and an exam training.

Course objectives

At the end of this course, students will have learned to avoid plagiarism and to find, evaluate and use legal resources. Students will also have learned and practiced the basics of writing a legal research paper. In particular, they will have practiced the drafting of a feasible research question, learned how to structure a research paper and how to refer to sources. In addition, they will know the fundamentals of formal logic, have practiced the analysis and construction of (legal) arguments and have learned to recognize flawed arguments. Students will moreover have gained first experiences in legal debating and public speaking. Lastly, students will be able to understand and apply legal provisions, to solve simple cases and to compose simple legal opinions.

Substantive Criminal Law

Full course description

Although every (European) country has its legal culture, and its own criminal law, each system may be understood as a ‘local’ answer to some ‘universal’ questions that constitute the foundation of criminal law. Criminal law deals with similar subjects and thus more or less the same issues internationally. That’s why it is necessary to cross borders to see what kind of solutions other legal systems have to offer for present and future problems. The main objective of this course is therefore to get acquainted with the elementary concepts of substantive criminal law, and the main differences and similarities between several European legal systems, like the common law system of England and Wales and the civil law system of the Netherlands and Germany. The main concepts that will be studied are: the objective and subjective elements of an offence (actus reus and mens rea), justifications and excuses, inchoate offences, modes of participation, and criminal liability of legal entities. This seven week course will combine seven sessions of group tutorials. According to the philosophy of problem-based learning, tutorial meetings shall be used to explore various concepts of substantive criminal law in different countries on the basis of some reading assignments, presentations and case studies. Using comparative literature students are asked to answer given background questions and specific questions on the case studies.

This obligatory course is a 4th period course of the first Bachelor year of the ELS-ET.
Course objectives

The object of this course is to identify various principles, rules and concepts of substantive criminal law by using a conceptual and comparative methodology. Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to

- analyze and understand the main concepts and rules of substantive criminal law;
- to understand and compare on an introductory level the main differences and similarities of the basic criminal liability concepts of three major European legal systems, i.e. Netherlands, Germany and the common law system of England and Wales;
- to critically reflect on some basic philosophical aspects and (recent) historical developments related to the rules of criminal liability (e.g. theories of punishment);
- to recognise and debate on an introductory level some societal and ethically relevant aspects of developments in substantive criminal law (e.g. terrorism, corporate criminal liability);
- to distil a problem in criminal law cases and to identify and apply the relevant rules and criteria in order to solve the cases (in a comparative way);
- to communicate and debate during the tutorials and also during a separate oral presentation possible solutions of a criminal law case in a well argumented way.

Prerequisites

The student is expected to have mastered the general basic principles of criminal law as discussed in the first year course Introduction to law (J. Hage & B. Akkermans (eds), Introduction to law, Springer, 2014) and legal English. No specific knowledge on criminal law is however required.

Recommended reading

The necessary reading material for this course consists of the following handbook:

For each session is indicated what chapters should be studied beforehand.

European Union Law: Substantive Law

Full course description

The purpose of this course is to introduce students to the core of what is known as the "substantive law" of the European Union. The course is based on two main pillars, on the one hand an introduction to the four freedoms and on the other hand the rules of competition law. These constitute the foundation of the economic and social order of the European Union. The course deals in detail with the free movement of goods (financial and quantitative restrictions), the free movement of persons, the freedom of establishment, the free movement of services. It specifically addresses the position of family members and the recognition of qualifications. Furthermore attention is paid to third country nationals. Addressed are in this context the association agreements concluded between the EU and third countries. Furthermore, the free movement of capital and financial services are addressed. In the last part, the course gives an introduction to the area of competition law. Cartel agreements and concerted practices, the abuse of a dominant position, mergers, state monopolies, state aid and the enforcement of competition law shall be addressed.

Course objectives

Has knowledge and insight in the most important fields of substantive EU Law (free movement/competition). Has the ability to identify and solve legal problems in the areas of law described above. Develops a critical attitude towards the areas of law described above.

Concepts of Criminal Procedure

Full course description

Criminal law systems in the EU differ from state to state, although they are all governed by the fundamental rights enshrined in the European Convention on Human Rights. In this course the common principles and standards of criminal procedure shall be examined, as these are defined by the case law of the ECTHR. Pre-trial and trial phase of criminal proceedings shall be both addressed. The topics examined include pre-trial investigation, suspect interrogation, pre-trial detention, the right to prosecute, defence rights during trial and the use of illegally obtained evidences. Students shall be familiarised with the most important case law of the ECTHR on these issues and solve practical case problems.

Course objectives

The aim of this course is to get acquainted with the elementary features of criminal proceedings and the ECTHR case law in this regard. Particular attention is paid to the pre-trial investigation and its impact on the trial phase, the role of the participants in criminal proceedings, the elements of a fair trial, procedural safeguards and the protection of fundamental rights.

European Tort Law

Full course description

The course discusses the central subjects of tort law from a comparative perspective and in the light of developments in supranational law (European Union and European Convention on Human Rights).

Course objectives

The main objective of the course is to provide students with cases, materials and comparative literature, allowing them to learn and discuss the main differences and similarities between English, German, and French. Specific attention is paid to the increasing intertwining between national tort laws on one hand and European Union law and the European Convention on Human Rights on the other. Students also acquire practical problem solving skills, by applying tort law norms from the above mentioned jurisdictions to hypothetical cases during the tutorials.

European Union Law: Foundations

Full course description

This course is devoted to an in-depth study of EU institutional law, within the broader perspective of EU law. Building on basic concepts of EU law, it seeks to advance the knowledge of the students to the level where they could handle EU institutional law matters in a professional or academic context. The four main topics of the course are: the ‘horizontal’ division of competences between the EU institutions (including legislative and administrative decision-making), the ‘vertical’ division of competences between the EU and the Member States (e.g. principles of conferral and subsidiarity), the judicial enforcement of EU law (infringement proceedings and preliminary reference procedure) as well as the position of the citizen in the European legal order (review of EU legal acts).

Course objectives

The main objectives of this course are that the student:

- acquires knowledge of the main characteristics of and developments in the field of EU institutional law;
- has in depth knowledge and understanding of the powers and functioning of the EU institutions and bodies;
- understands the relationship between European law and national law as regards the divisions of competences, conflicts between the two and how these conflicts should be resolved;
- can apply theoretical concepts of EU institutional law to concrete cases and identify potential problems in this regard;
- can develop a critical analysis (both orally and on paper) of concrete cases and developments in the relevant fields.

Private International Law

Full course description

Private International Law (PIL) provides a set of legal rules where one or more of the parties, facts or circumstances related to a legal dispute are connected with more than one legal system. Private International Law in particular provides: 1. legal rules which establish when a national court has international jurisdiction in any case involving an international element; 2. legal rules which determine the applicable law in cases involving international elements heard before a national court; and 3. legal rules on recognition and enforcement of foreign court judgments in another country. Since each country has its own Private International Law rules, Private International Law originally is domestic law. Other influential sources of PIL are international treaties and, more increasingly, EU-regulations. Private International Law has become even more significant as a result of increasing integration within the European Union and because of globalization (of trade and free movement). This course in particular focuses on the European perspective of Private International Law. Hence it includes: 1. an examination of the general structure, main doctrines, principles and topics (family law, goods, contractual/non-contractual obligations) of PIL from the EU-perspective; 2. an introduction to the most important EU-regulations and international treaties on Private International Law such as the Regulation 593/2008 on the law applicable to contractual obligations, Regulation 864/2007 on the law applicable to non-contractual obligations, Regulation 2201/2003 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility and Regulation 4/2009 on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and co-operation in matters relating to maintenance obligations. 3. an overview of the historical development of Private International Law. Attention will also be paid to current Private International Law.
codifications in several EU-member states as illustration of PIL’s originally domestic character. For the purposes of this course Private International Law is understood in a broad sense, thus including the conflict of laws and the law of international civil procedure.

Course objectives

The general aim of the course is to provide students with an understanding of the problems inherent in legal situations involving (a) crossborder element(s) in Europe. The students will gain knowledge of the basic principles and legal rules of Private International Law from the European perspective as well as of its historical developments.

Prerequisites

Basic knowledge of law in general.

Skills: Academic Writing

Full course description

The course Academic Writing has been re-thought and re-structured around the principal elements and criteria required for the Bachelor’s Essay, which are reflected in the new Assessment Form prescribed for the assessment of Bachelor’s Essays (available on the Academic Paper Dossier platform). In the conception and production of an academic paper of around 4,000 words (i.e. roughly half the length of the Bachelor’s Essay), students will be guided step-by-step through the advanced academic writing process, working in turn on such aspects as the research proposal, bibliography, research question, structural outline, main body of text, etc. This is designed to ensure that students master each of these individual steps (while at the same time recognising that ultimately they are inextricably intertwined), and that they allow sufficient time for each stage in the process. Students will be free to decide on the topic of their papers, subject to certain limitations, which will be explained at the beginning of the course.

Course objectives

The objective of this course is to develop the skills of academic legal research and writing, with a view to enabling students to become self-sufficient in their academic writing endeavours, including notably (but certainly not only) the Bachelor’s Essay. By the second year of their studies, students have already acquired basic knowledge of the technical aspects of academic research and writing through the course “Skills: Legal Research and Reasoning”, and this course seeks to build on this knowledge by further expanding, deepening and practicing students’ writing skills with the introduction of new concepts and insights. This will necessitate an independent work attitude on the part of the students and the ability to gauge the quality of one’s own work, not to mention also the work of others, on the basis of the guidance received during the course. For this reason, another important skill that will be developed in parallel in this course is the ability to both take on board and provide critical feedback on written academic work, as well as to address comments and incorporate suggestions as and where appropriate.

Prerequisites

The course builds on knowledge obtained in course LAW1003 Skills: Legal Research and Reasoning.

Inleiding Nederlands Bestuursrecht

Full course description

Het gaat in dit blok met name om de vraag welke bevoegdheden de overheid heeft en hoe zij daaraan komt (bevoegdheden voor en vormen van bestuurshandelingen) alsmede welke normen die daarvoor gelden (normering van bestuurshandelingen).

Course objectives

Dit tweedejaarsblok behandelt enkele elementaire leerstukken van het Nederlandse bestuursrecht. Allereerst wordt kennis gemaakt met de ontwikkeling van het bestuursrecht en de wijze waarop bestuursorganen bevoegdheden kunnen verkrijgen alsmede de relatie met het legaliteitsbeginsel. Vervolgens wordt inzicht verworven in de kernbegrippen en de structuur van de Awb. Daarna worden de verschillende vormen van bestuurshandelen (besluiten, beschikkingen, beleidsregels etc.) behandeld en tot slot komen de normen die daarvoor gelden aan bod. Daarbij gaat het met name om de algemene beginselen van behoorlijk bestuur. In het derdejaarsvak Staats- en bestuursrecht wordt de kennis van Inleiding bestuursrecht voortgebouwd, maar komen grotere onderwerpen uit andere onderwerpen aan bod. In dat derdejaarsvak zal wat betreft het bestuursrecht voornamelijk ingegaan worden op de bestuursrechtelijke rechtsbescherming, het gebruik van privaatrecht door de overheid, handhaving en het schadevergoedingsrecht. De onderwerpen van Inleiding Nederlands bestuursrecht worden in het vak Staats- en bestuursrecht dus niet nogmaals verdiept behandeld.

Full course description

Dit blok is bedoeld als een inleiding tot het Nederlandse strafrecht en strafprocesrecht. Het beoogt elementair inzicht te geven in de structuur, beginselen en regels van het strafrechtelijk systeem, waarbij eerst aandacht wordt besteed aan het formele strafrecht en daarna aan het materiële strafrecht. Tijdens de eerste vier bijeenkomsten komen de belangrijkste leerstukken van het formele strafrecht aan bod. Het formele strafrecht, grotendeels geregeld in het Wetboek van Strafvordering, kan worden begrepen als het geheel van rechtsregels betreffende de opsporing, vervolging en berechting van personen die ervan worden verdacht een strafbaar feit te hebben gepleegd. In het formele strafrechtelijke deel komen achtereenvolgens de volgende onderwerpen aan de orde: de diverse fasen en actoren van het strafproces, het verdenkingsbegrip, opsporingsbevoegdheden, vrijheidsbenemende dwangmiddelen, fouillering en doorzoekingsbevoegdheden, vervolging, de systematiek van artikelen 348-350 Sv, regeling met betrekking tot getuigen en beginselen van bewijsrecht. Tijdens de drie volgende bijeenkomsten komen de belangrijkste leerstukken van het materiële strafrecht aan bod. Als er wordt gesproken over materieel strafrecht dan heeft men het over de vraag wat een strafbaar feit is. Dit deel van het strafrecht wordt voor een belangrijk deel gevonden in het Wetboek van Strafrecht, maar ook in bijzondere wetten, zoals de Opiumwet. In dit materieelrechtelijk deel wordt aandacht besteed aan de verschillende schuldvormen en de strafuitsluitingsgronden. Daarna komen leerstukken in beeld die leiden tot een nadere definitie van de personen die bij een strafbaar feit betrokken kunnen zijn. Het gaat dan om onderwerpen als poging, voorbereiding en deelnemingsvormen, zoals uitlokking en medeplichtigheid. De belangrijkste onderwijsvormen in dit blok betreffen de onderwijsbijeenkomsten (1 x 2 uur per week) en een drietal hoorcolleges. De taken, opdrachten en aanwijzingen in alle genoemde onderwijsvormen behoren tot de verplichte leerstof van het blok.

Recommended reading

Het voorgeschreven basisboek in dit blok is: M.J. Kronenberg en B. de Wilde, Grondtrekken van het Nederlandse strafrecht, Kluwer, laatste druk Daarnaast zijn de in het literatuurboek opgenomen teksten en de colleges deel van de verplichte leerstof van het blok.

Het blok Inleiding Privaatrecht begint met een kort overzicht van het gehele privaatrecht en een inleiding tot kernbegrippen van het vermogensrecht. Daarna volgt een korte inleiding in het overeenkomstenrecht. Het grootste deel van het blok is gewijd aan het goederenrecht waarbij onder andere het leerstuk van de overdracht uitvoerig wordt behandeld, zowel voor onroerende als roerende zaken en vorderingen. De derdenbescherming van de verkrijger te goeder trouw wordt behandeld aan de hand van onroerende en roerende zaken. Wat onroerende zaken betreft komt ook de rol van de openbare registers en het kadaster naar voren en verkrijging van een onroerende zaak door verjaring. Tenslotte wordt ook veel aandacht besteed aan beperkte rechten (onder andere opstal, erfpacht en erfdienstbaarheid) en kwalitatieve verplichtingen en kettingbedingen. De te behandelen stof is verdeeld over de onderwijsgroepen en colleges.

In dit blok staat de natuurlijke persoon die niet ondernemer is centraal. In dit blok wordt grondig aandacht geschonken aan de systematiek van de loon- en inkomstenbelasting. Er wordt aandacht besteed aan de plaats van diverse inkomstenbronnen binnen de inkomstenbelasting, zoals arbeid en resultaat uit overige werkzaamheden. Uitgebreid aandacht krijgt de inkomstenbron arbeid en inherent daaraan de loonbelasting. Daarnaast komt de premieheffing sociale zekerheid aan de orde. In het tweede deel van het blok komt het vermogen aan bod: de inkomsten uit eigen woning (box 1) kent een prominente plaats, daarnaast komen de inkomsten in de vorm van periodieke uitkeringen en verstrekkingen (box 1), en het inkomen uit aanmerkelijk belang (box 2) aan de orde. Bijzondere aandacht wordt besteed aan de inkomstenbelastinggevolgen van echtscheiding. Tot slot wordt de vermogensrendementheffing (box 3) behandeld. Het personen-, familie- en huwelijksvermogensrecht zijn eveneens van belang.

Course objectives

Het verkrijgen van inzicht in de structuur van de loon- en inkomstenbelasting van een werknemer resp. belastingplichtige die niet- ondernemer is. Daarnaast dient inzicht te worden verkregen in het personen-, familie-, huwelijksvermogens- en erfrecht.

Recht in een Multiculturele Samenleving

Full course description

De multiculturele samenleving, die heden ten dage in belangrijke mate het gevolg is van immigratie, stelt ons voor de vraag of de huidige rechtsordes met haar eigen historisch gegroeide normen en waarden moeten openstaan voor nieuwe normen en waarden, alsmede op welke wijze op deze ontwikkelingen dient te worden gereageerd. De vragen die rijzen, laten zich gelden op alle terreinen van het recht: van islamitische verstotingen in het familierecht, eerwaakakwesties in het strafrecht, tot de vraag naar een bestuursrechtelijk verbod op het dragen van burqa’s in het openbare leven. De ontwikkeling op dit gebied vindt niet alleen in Den Haag plaats maar in belangrijke mate ook via de rechtspraak. Verder worden ook aan het Europese Hof voor de Rechten van de Mens in Straatsburg steeds vaker zaken voorgelegd waarin het Hof zich moet uitlaten over de reikwijdte en de grenzen van de godsdienstvrijheid, de vrijheid van meningsuiting, en andere vrijheden in een multiculturele samenleving. Ook de Raad van Europa laat zich niet onbetuigd en voorziet de juridische markt met enige regelmaat van handreikingen en handleidingen. Centraal staat een bestudering van het recht (en beleid) van Nederland, vanuit een casuïstische benadering: bestudering van casuïstiek, rechtspraak, uitspraken van CGB, College voor de rechten van de mens, en regelgeving. Daarnaast verdiepen studenten zich in theoretische grondslagen van een multiculturele samenleving en bestuderen zij rechtspraak van het Europese Hof voor de Rechten van de Mens (EHRM), in het bijzonder op de volgende gebieden: vrijheid van godsdienst en godsdienstuitoefening (artikel 9 EVRM) - bescherming van het gezinsleven (family life) (artikel 8 EVRM) - vrijheid van meningsuiting (artikel 10 EVRM) - verbod van discriminatie naar godsdienst. Geruime aandacht bestaat ook voor de bestudering van achtergronden van culturen en religies, zoals de beginselen van islamitisch familierecht, traditioneel bepaalde beginselen van eerwaak en dergelijke. Bestudeerd wordt met welke kwesties Nederlandse autoriteiten in aanraking komen, hoe zij tot oplossingen komen, welke argumenten in de overwegingen worden betrokken, en op welk niveau oplossingen worden gezocht. De te bestuderen onderwerpen liggen op verschillende rechtsgebieden: mensenrechten, grondslagen van het recht, strafrecht, strafprocesrecht, internationaal privaatrecht, staats- en bestuursrecht, arbeidsrecht, familierecht, Europees recht en metajuridica. Het blok is opgezet rond zeven onderwijsbijeenkomsten Inhoudelijk gaat het hierbij achtereenvolgens om: 1) denken over pluriformiteit in het recht; 2) strafrecht (eerwaak en andere kwesties); 3) strafprocesrecht (bejegening van culturele diversiteit in opsporingsonderzoeksfase, ter terechtzitting, en bij de uitvoering van straffen); 4) gezin en inburgering; 5) familierecht (verstoting en andere kwesties); 6) godsdienstvrijheid, alsmede vrijheid van meningsuiting; 7) juridische vragen omtrent het dragen van hoofddoek in arbeid, school en openbaar leven, in het bijzonder vanuit het discriminatieverbod.

Course objectives

Doel van het blok is dat de student: - heeft kennis van en inzicht in de grondslagen van het recht in een multiculturele samenleving - heeft kennis van en inzicht in metajuridische aspecten van rechtsspluralisme; - heeft een open oog ontwikkeld voor culturele achtergronden van rechtswetten; - Heeft inzicht in de dilemma’s die de culturele diversiteit in het recht met zich meebrengt; - heeft inzicht in het juridisch instrumentarium waarmee de culturele diversiteit in het recht kan worden ondervangen. - Is in staat om concrete vragen over culturele diversiteit en recht beargumenteer en beredeneer en op een juridisch wetenschappelijk verantwoorde manier te beantwoorden, waarbij redenering, argumentatie en belangenafweging voorop staan. Het kan hierbij gaan om vragen op de volgende rechtsgebieden: strafrecht, strafprocesrecht, familierecht, internationaal familierecht, godsdienst- en expressievrijheid, discriminatieverbod, mensenrechten, het uiting geven aan godsdienst in de arbeid, het uiting geven aan godsdienst in het onderwijs, en het uiting geven aan godsdienst in openbare ruimten. - Is met betrekking tot de bij het vorige punt genoemde vragen, in staat deze te beantwoorden vanuit Nederlands, en waar relevant, Europees perspectief; - beschikt over de voor een bachelor noodzakelijke vaardigheden in: het omgaan met verschillende bronnen (ook digitaal) van het juridische vakgebied, casus oplossen mede vanuit een rechtsvergelijkende benadering, het analyseren van jurisprudentie en andere juridische teksten, het juridisch argumenteren, het zelfstandig op heldere wijze mondeling of schriftelijk juridische vragen beantwoorden; - kan zich een kritische attitude eigen maken.

Medische Aansprakelijkheid

Full course description

In het blok Medische aansprakelijkheid wordt het civiele aansprakelijkheidsrecht, toegespitst op de gezondheidszorg, aan de orde gesteld. Centraal staat de vraag of/wanneer een patiënt, die schade heeft geleden door een medische fout, met succes vergoeding daarvan kan vorderen, en hoe de afwikkeling van een dergelijke claim plaatsvindt. Het betreft, medisch-juridisch en maatschappelijk gezien, een belangrijk onderdeel van het civiele aansprakelijkheidsrecht, met de nodige belangwekkende ontwikkelingen. Het blok is onderverdeeld in zeven delen. Per week wordt een bepaald onderwerp behandeld. De thema’s die aangeboden worden, zijn: - introductie/context: soorten medische fouten, hun oorzaken (gebrekkige communicatie, gebrekkige medische apparatuur etc.) en hun gevolgen; - de grondslag(en) waarop de patiënt zijn vordering tot schadevergoeding kan baseren; - de maatstaf waaraan het handelen van de hulpverlener door de rechter wordt getoetst - de juridische betekenis van zelfregulering in de gezondheidszorg in de vorm van standaarden, richtlijnen, protocollen e.d.; - de aansprakelijk te stellen persoon/personen, mede in geval van samenwerking tussen hulpverleners; denk bijvoorbeeld aan medische behandeling op een huisartsenpost of door een team van artsen in een ziekenhuis (hoofdbehandelaar en medebehandelaars); - de aansprakelijkheid bij het gebruik van gebrekkige medische hulpmiddelen (recent voorbeeld: de casus van de lekkende PIP-borstimplantaten) en bij het voorschrijven of toedienen van geneesmiddelen; - causaliteitsproblemen: complicaties, en juridische oplossingen, bij het aantonen van het vereiste causaal verband tussen de medische fout en de geleden schade; - vormen van schadevergoeding: materieel en/of immaterieel; - procedurele aspecten, zoals: de wijze van omgaan met medische fouten in de relatie hulpverlener - patiënt, het melden van fouten (intern en extern, aan de Inspectie voor de Gezondheidszorg), bewijs en bewijslastverdeling, de rol van de (getuige-) deskundige. In de colleges die tijdens het blok worden gegeven, wordt mede aandacht besteed aan de wettelijke regeling van de geneeskundige behandelingovereenkomst (afdeling 7.7.5 BW). Kennis van de rechten en verplichtingen in de relatie hulpverlener - patiënt is nodig voor een goed begrip van het medisch aansprakelijkheidsrecht.

Course objectives

Het verwerven van kennis van, en inzicht in, het fenomeen medische fouten, het medisch aansprakelijkheidsrecht en de (wijze van) afwikkeling van medische schadevergoedingsclaims. Hierbij: verbreding en verdieping van de aanwezige voorkennis met betrekking tot het verbintenissenrecht (overeenkomst, onrechtmatige daad) en het slaan van een brug naar de medische en de juridische praktijk.

Prerequisites

Het blok staat, behalve voor studenten ingeschreven bij de FdR, open voor studenten van andere faculteiten, zoals studenten Geneeskunde. Het leent zich bij uitstek voor een multidisciplinaire benadering van de stof die het aan de orde stelt. Waar nodig wordt ondersteuning geboden bij het opdoen van de vereiste basiskennis.

European Company Law

Full course description

Central aim of the Bachelor Course European Company Law (European Law School) is to introduce participants into the basics of company law in the European Union. The first challenge (chapter 1) is to get acquainted with basic features of what ‘business conduct’ precisely is about. It all starts with perceiving which business ‘formats’ (i.e. the sole trader, partnerships and company types) may serve entrepreneurs’ interests best.

The second challenge is to understand some specific topics of company law from a comparative angle. Correspondingly, some attention will be devoted to the law of France, Germany, England, and the Netherlands. In chapter 2 the students will deal with company formation and incorporation, including the pre-incorporation stage of limited liability companies and company nullity. Chapter 3 is all about capital protection in a narrow sense: the substantive requirement of a reasonable amount of money owned by the company. In chapter 4 internal matters of the company are dealt with: the powers of the management board, the supervisory board and the general meeting of shareholders. The question arises what happens when things go wrong within the company. This question will be dealt with in chapter 5: duties and liabilities of the board of directors and the general meeting of shareholders.

The third challenge is to understand cross-border business conduct and the freedom of establishment throughout the European Union (i.e. mutual recognition of companies and the possibility of cross-border company seat transfers and mergers).

The final chapter sheds light on current developments and trends at EU-level, in particular business formats that are not creatures of national Member State laws (Societas Europaea, Societas unius Personae).

Course objectives

- The first goal is to get acquainted with the principles and basic features of the substance of company law, from a legal point of view.
- The second goal for students lies in the need to understand the close relation between national company law on one hand and European company law on the other. Starting point is national company law of the Netherlands, Germany and France (Civil Law oriented concepts) and the United Kingdom (Common Law oriented concept).
- The third goal is to get a grip on the specific features of Company Law from a European perspective. The course requires from participants that they do not only concentrate on the framework of, inasmuch it does exist, European law but also of the use of tools and methods taken from other legal disciplines such as private international law concerning the status of foreign companies (i.e. the real seat theory and the incorporation theory).

Prerequisites

Basic knowledge of EU institutional law.

Vennootschapsbelasting

Full course description

In dit blok staat de belastingheffing over de winst van NV’s, BV’s en andere lichamen centraal. Het blok vormt een inleiding op de belastingheffing over de winst van vennootschappen. In het masterblok Fiscaal concernrecht wordt hierop voortgebouwd. In dit blok komen de specifieke aspecten van de winstbepaling voor vennootschappen ten opzichte van die voor ondernemers in de inkomstenbelasting aan de orde. Behandeld worden de afbakening voor de vennootschapsbelasting van het subject en het object, de storting van kapitaal en de uitdeling van winst, de aftrek van rente en de verrekening van verliezen. Verder komen, inleidend, aan de orde de voor de vennootschapsbelasting specifieke leerstukken van de deelnemingsvrijstelling en de fiscale eenheid. Naast de vennootschapsbelasting wordt aandacht besteed aan de dividendbelasting, die wordt geheven bij de winstuitkeringen door een vennootschap aan haar aandeelhouders.

Course objectives

Verwerven van basiskennis van de vennootschapsbelasting en de dividendbelasting. Na afloop van het blok moet de student in staat zijn om problemen op het gebied van de vennootschapsbelasting en de dividendbelasting, die geen betrekking hebben op concernstructuren, grensoverschrijdende structuren of fusies en splitsingen, te onderkennen en te analyseren en er mogelijke oplossingen voor aan te dragen.
Prerequisites

Voor een goed begrip van de vennootschapsbelasting is enige kennis van de inkomstenbelasting onontbeerlijk. Degenen die weinig of geen kennis van de inkomstenbelasting hebben, wordt daarom dringend aangeraden om voor de aanvang van het blok een beknopte inleiding in de inkomstenbelasting door te nemen. Bruikbaar zijn, uit het boek: C.A. de Kam P.M. van Schie e.a., Belastingrecht in Hoofdlijnen, Studenteneditie, FED fiscale studieserie 38, laatste druk, Kluwer, Hoofdstuk 2 of uit het boek: M.L.M. van Kempen, P.H.J. Essers e.a., Cursus belastingrecht (Inkomstenbelasting), studenteneditie laatste druk, Kluwer, Hoofdstuk 1 of uit het boek: L.G.M. Stevens, Elementair belastingrecht voor economen en bedrijfsjuristen, laatste editie, theorieboek, Hoofdstuk 4. Dit hoofdstuk geeft een kort overzicht van de structuur van de inkomstenbelasting. Uit hetzelfde boek kan desgewenst vooraf ook nog worden bestudeerd: hoofdstuk 6, voor de begrippen onderneming, ondernemer en totale winst, en hoofdstuk 7, voor de jaarwinstbepaling.

International Business Law

Full course description

This course deals with several important features of the law of international business transactions. The first part of the course revolves around the substantive law relating to various aspects of an international sales transaction. It explores the rights and obligations that stem from the contract of sale, with a particular focus on the UN Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods and the INCOTERMS. Since the goods under the contract of sale will need to be transported across borders, the course also looks at elements of the contract for carriage of goods. We will also look at the letter of credit as a mechanism for the buyer to make payment to the seller. In the second part of the course, the focus shifts to dispute resolution in international business transactions. Attention is given to several important aspects of transnational litigation and alternative dispute resolution, looking for instance at issues of private international law (the applicable law and jurisdiction in case of contracts of sale) and international commercial arbitration. This course is useful introductory course for those who want to be involved in the legal aspects of international trade.

Successiewet en Erfrecht

Full course description

In dit blok komen aan de orde de belastingen die worden geheven op het moment waarop vermogen door schenking of vererving overgaat van de ene hand in de andere. Hierbij wordt verband gelegd met het personen- en familierecht dat in blok 1.5 Inleiding Privaatrecht aan de orde is geweest. Tevens wordt gedurende twee weken van het blok ingegaan op het erfrecht. In de Successiewet 1956 wordt een onderscheid gemaakt tussen schenkbelasting en erfbelasting. Naast de bespreking van de belastingplichtige, het belastbaar feit, het tarief en de vrijstellingen, komen de talrijke zogenoemde “fictiebepalingen” aan de orde. Aan het einde van het blok passeren enige grensoverschrijdende aspecten de revue. Daarbij is de laatste jaren aandacht gegeven aan buurland België. Tevens wordt ingegaan op de Europeesrechtelijke gevolgen van grensoverschrijdende situaties en aan het internationaal privaatrecht. Het blok Successiewet en erfrecht heeft tot doel de student kennis van en inzicht te laten verwerven in het Nederlandse erfrecht en de erf- en schenkbelasting. Daarbij wordt hij ook ingevoerd in de Europeesrechtelijke dimensies.

Prerequisites

Er is geen specifieke voorkennis vereist. Het blok vormt een samenspel tussen privaatrecht en belastingrecht.

European Criminal Justice Area

Full course description

This course focuses on cooperation between the Member States of the European Union in criminal matters. The Treaty on the European Union in 1992 created the so called Area of Freedom Security and Justice, which led to increasing efforts by the Member States to streamline their endeavors in regard to co-operation in criminal matters. The Treaty of Lisbon even further integrates and develops the co-operation in criminal matters within the European Union. This course will inter alia explore the effects of the Area of Freedom Security and Justice on the different forms of co-operation in criminal matters at the various stages of a criminal trial. A variety of European legal instruments, like the European Arrest Warrant, as well as pertinent case law of the European Court of Justice will be discussed. Furthermore, the course will deal with cornerstone principles of the Area, such as mutual recognition and ne bis in idem. In addition to the European Arrest Warrant, other forms of mutual recognition in criminal matters, e.g. the execution of judgments, the European Protection Order and the Supervision of Orders on Detention on Remand will be analyzed. Finally the repercussions of these new forms of co-operation on European citizens will be discussed and strengths and weaknesses of the new emerging European Criminal Justice System will be highlighted. The course has a focus limited to cooperation and will therefore not deal with the influence of Union law on national substantive criminal law. That is the topic of the master course European Criminal Law (CRI4007). The main objective of this course is therefore to get acquainted with the elementary concepts of European cooperation in criminal matters and with the changes and developments brought about by the introduction of the European Area of freedom, security and justice. This seven week course will combine seven sessions of group tutorials. According to the philosophy of problem-based learning, tutorial meetings shall be used to explore various concepts of the emerging European criminal justice area on the basis of some reading assignments and case studies.

Course objectives

The main objective of this course is to get acquainted with mutual recognition as the basis for all modalities of cooperation in criminal matters within the European Union. Students will understand the changes and developments brought about by the introduction of the European Area of Freedom, Security and Justice. They will be enabled to apply as well as critically discuss legal instruments and developments in the Area of Freedom Security and Justice. They should be able to find their way in European legislation implemented in a national penal system, evaluate their functioning and form a balanced opinion about the effects of European cooperation in criminal matters.

Prerequisites

- Interest in cooperation in criminal matters
- Readiness to participate in group sessions based on PBL

Law and Art: The Free Movement of Cultural Property

Full course description

Law and Art - The Free Movement of Cultural Property is a course analysing the trade in artworks and cultural objects and their protection against various forms of threats from a legal perspective. Artworks speak to our imagination and either fascinate or irritate (or bore) us and in the public discourse in the media it is the uniqueness of artworks that is emphasised: their uniqueness, their representation of the artistic genius, expressions of the human condition... But art works are also goods: material objects that can be valued in money. This dual character of artworks combining their economic value with a higher or aesthetic value is what makes artworks particularly interesting to study from a legal perspective. Another challenge for the law is the fact that the art trade (legal and illicit) is a truly international market. Since artworks are relatively easy to take across borders, stolen or looted art objects can show up all over the globe. To add to the difficulties, laws affecting the art trade differ from country to country. This is especially true for export regulations, the rules on the bona fide purchase and limitation periods. The position of the bona fide purchaser is a delicate issue. Who should be protected and for how long? Must a bona fide purchaser return a stolen painting? Which law applies if more than one jurisdiction is involved? These examples show that this course deals with many different areas of law: International and European law, Private and Private International Law, Public as well as Criminal Law. But you can easily widen the legal fields having a relation to the art market, such as for example Intellectual Property Law or Tax Law. The course will examine a broad spectrum of issues including the protection of cultural property during times of war against destruction and removal as well as their restitution; the protection of cultural property in times of peace against illegal export and the illicit trade; The European dimension of cultural policies will be addressed including the free movement of cultural property in the European Union, media policies, resale royalty legislation, state aid and the cultural sector. Additionally, the question of cultural diversity and the issue of authenticity and fakes as well as the international and European legislative developments concerning stolen, illicitly excavated, exported and looted works of art will be discussed. In the first week, there is a general introduction, in which the organisation of the course is explained and the work on International Art Trade and the Law is commenced. As reading material we shall use Kurt Siehr, International Art Trade and the Law, Recueil des Cours 1993, Vol. 243 (to be found in the library), the book of Katja Lubina, Looted Art (electronically available on ELEUM and provided as PDF by e-mail) and different articles on ELEUM. During the course period, Maastricht will be the host of the TEFAF (13th – 22nd of March 2015), the most important international fine art fair in Europe. In the past, several art experts have come to provide a lecture during the course, and visiting the TEFAF with the newly gained insights into the art market, will be even more impressive. A special conference will be organized at the end of the TEFAF on the 22nd and 23rd of March. One does not have to be an art lover to find the course Law and Art - The Free Movement of Cultural Property an interesting choice. Compassion for art is therefore not a condition, just an extra. Even a philistine would enjoy the intriguing art law cases and legal problems. Participants will in principal be assessed on the basis of a paper in the area of art law /cultural heritage law. The paper should be written according to academic standards. The paper should include a literature list. References should be in footnote format. This course is also part of an interfaculty MINOR
Course objectives

Aim of the course is to making students aware of legal problems concerning the licit ant illicit art market. Students will become familiar with various areas of law all related to art, cultural property and heritage (international and European law, Private international Law, property law, contract and tort law, tax law and regulations concerning the art market etc.

Prerequisites

Basis knowledge of law. This project is open for students of the faculties of LAW, Arts and Culture and UCM and Erasmus students

Comparative Legal History of the Euregion

Full course description

In the Early Modern Period (16th-18th centuries) the Meuse-Rhine region was divided in many autonomous territories like the duchies of Gueldres, Cleves, Julich, the Prince Bishopric of Cologne and Liege etc. Most of these territories underwent a process of legal modernization in this period. One of the most important features of this process was the codification of customary law, as ordered by the sovereigns of these territories. Although the codicators in those territories made use of the Corpus iuris civilis as a subsidiairy law source, they found different solutions for comparable legal problems, resulting in different mixtures of customary and Roman law, which were studied in regional legal treatises and jurisprudence in the following period. Today, many contemporary treatises on the legal systems of Cleve, Julich, Cologne and Liege are available as facsimile editions on line, enabling us to study similarities and differences in the legal systems of the Meuse-Rhine territories.
Course objectives

Acquirement of the necessary skills in the field of comparative legal history research; insight in het legal history of the Meuse-Rhine region (16th-19th centuries)

Prerequisites

Elementary legal history; advanced (passive) knowledge of French and/or German and/or Dutch is a prerequisite.

Omgevingsrecht

Full course description

De ruimte in Nederland is vrij beperkt. Vele activiteiten zijn van invloed op de (kwaliteit van de) omgeving. Het recht van de ruimtelijke ordening (ruimtelijk bestuursrecht), het milieurecht (voorkomen en ongedaan maken van verontreiniging) en het natuurbeschermingsrecht - samen het omgevingsrecht vormend - zijn bij uitstek de drie rechtsgebieden waarin de regulering van die activiteiten centraal staat. Het gaat hoofdzakelijk om bijzonder bestuursrecht, dat uiteraard voor een aantal algemene aspecten (totstandkoming van besluiten, handhaving en rechtsbescherming) een belangrijke link heeft met het algemeen bestuursrecht en vooral de Algemene wet bestuursrecht. Een groot deel van het blok Omgevingsrecht zoemt in op (het vereiste van) vergunningen en het toetsingskader daarvoor. De op 1 oktober 2010 in werking getreden Wet algemene bepalingen omgevingsrecht (Wabo) geeft een compleet nieuwe dimensie aan het systeem van vergunningverlening in het omgevingsrecht! Deze staat centraal in het blok. Indien mogelijk wordt er naast de reguliere onderwijsbijeenkomsten een zitting bezocht (bouw- en milieuzaken) bij de rechtbank Limburg (te Maastricht of Roermond) en/of is er een lezing van een externe deskundige.

Course objectives

Doel van het blok omgevingsrecht is om de contouren van het ruimtelijk bestuursrecht (Wet ruimtelijke ordening), het milieurecht (Wet milieubeheer) en eventueel -maar zeer waarschijnlijk niet- het gebiedsgerichte natuurbeschermingsrecht (Natuurbeschermingswet 1998) in kaart te brengen en met elkaar te vergelijken. De focus is op de Wabo (als overkoepelende omgevingswet). Ook wordt gekeken naar de op stapel staande Omgevingswet! Het blok is gericht op het verwerven van inzicht in en kennis van de taken en bevoegdheden van de verschillende overheidsorganen op het gebied van de genoemde drie rechtsgebieden en de onderlinge samenhang daartussen (inclusief procedures en rechtsbescherming).

Prerequisites

Kennis van het omgevingsrecht is voor de bestuursrechtjurist onontbeerlijk, al was het maar omdat overheidsoptreden vaak een ruimtelijk facet heeft en omdat een groot deel van de bij de bestuursrechter ingestelde beroepen betrekking heeft op besluiten in de sfeer van het omgevingsrecht (vergunningverlening voor bouwen en milieu en het handhaven van overtredingen op dat punt). Ook de advocaat en de bedrijfsjurist zullen met het omgevingsrecht te maken hebben/krijgen.

Consumentenrecht

Full course description

Het consumentenrecht is ontstaan in het kader van de consumentenbeweging. In de jaren vijftig/zestig van de vorige eeuw groeide het besef dat de consument zich in verhouding tot de professionele verkoper of dienstverlener in een zwakke positie bevindt: de professionele partij bepaalt wat wordt aangeboden en tegen welke voorwaarden. De vrijheid van de consument is vaak beperkt tot het al dan niet afnemen van goederen of diensten. Bovendien beschikt de consument over minder juridische en productkennis dan de professionele partij. Het consumentenrecht is erop gericht het evenwicht tussen de professionele partij en de consument te herstellen. Vandaag de dag vindt het Nederlandse consumentenrecht zijn oorsprong hoofdzakelijk in Europese richtlijnen die in het Nederlandse recht zijn geïmplementeerd. Het consumentenrecht vervult in die zin een voortrekkersrol in de creatie van een Europees privaatrecht. Het blok beoogt een algemene inleiding te geven in de ontwikkeling van het consumentenrecht, de verhouding tussen de Europese en de nationale regels inzake consumentenrecht, en de positie van het consumentenrecht in de ontwikkeling van het Europees privaatrecht. Vervolgens worden een aantal belangrijke thema’s van consumentenrecht aan de orde gesteld: de consumentenkoop, de productaansprakelijkheid, de overeenkomsten of afstand en buiten de onderneming, de algemene voorwaarden, het consumentenkrediet en de oneerlijke handelspraktijken.

Course objectives

Na afloop van het blok dient de student inzicht te hebben in de ontwikkeling van het Nederlandse en Europese consumentenrecht. Hij dient inzicht te hebben in de voornaamste technieken van consumentenbescherming. Hij dient op de hoogte te zijn van de rechtspraak van het Hof van Justitie met betrekking tot de interpretatie van de bestudeerde richtlijnen. Hij dient in staat te zijn het Nederlandse consumentenrecht te toetsen op zijn conformiteit met het Europese consumentenrecht en casussen met betrekking tot de bestudeerde onderwerpen op te lossen naar Nederlands recht dat op een richtlijnconforme wijze is geinterpreteerd. Hij dient in staat te zijn zijn mening over de bestudeerde onderwerpen van consumentenrecht bondig te formuleren en hierover in groep en schriftelijk te communiceren.

Prerequisites

Het blok Consumentenrecht sluit voor wat betreft voorkennis goed aan op de blokken 1.5 Inleiding privaatrecht en 2.4 Verbintenissenrecht.

Most of what the EU actually does can be qualified as administrative law. A directive setting standards for air quality, a fine imposed by the European Commission to a company found guilty of a cartel, a guidance on safety standards issued by the European Aviation Safety Agency are all measures which fall within the scope of administrative law.

While at national level there is a rather clear-cut division between legislative and administrative bodies, and it is not hard to identify what constitutes ‘the administration’, when the EU is involved matters become more complicated. Some of EU law is adopted and executed at EU level. If the Commission investigates the behaviour of a company which it suspects abusing its dominant position, it acts as an administrative authority. At the end of this process, the Commission may then issue an administrative measure, e.g. a fine, against which judicial review will be open before the European Courts. This is a typical case of direct administration.

Most of EU law, however, is not executed by the European institutions themselves. Because of the complexity and the sheer amount of work involved, the EU has, from the outset, needed national administrations to put European policies into effect. First of all, national parliaments need to transpose Directives and operationalise Regulations. If the EU passes a Directive on waste treatment, the national parliaments must create national law e.g. setting percentages of minimum waste recycling, designating the competent authorities in charge of monitoring whether companies comply with the requirements, setting fines for non-compliance etc. The designated national authorities will then have to inspect premises, draw up reports, impose fines etc. In such cases, one talks about indirect administration, because EU law is executed through the national administrations.

In cases of indirect administration, it is generally national rules of administrative law that govern the actions of national authorities. These national rules govern the procedural requirements have to be fulfilled if one asks for a permit, if and at which court one can file an action if the permit is refused and with which means the government can ensure that the requirements for obtaining the permit are enforced. Because national administrations are, in such cases, executing European law, and national courts are adjudicating on European law, national procedural rules have to respect some minimum requirements imposed by the EU legislator and the CJEU. In this way the EU has been increasingly influencing national administrative law.

The course European Administrative Law covers all these themes: starting from the cases of direct administration (i.e. what is sometimes referred to as ‘the administrative law of the European Union’), the course moves to discuss situations in which the EU and the national administrations have to cooperate in the execution of European law, and will subsequently discuss the way European law influences national administrative law in the cases of indirect administration.

Course objectives

The student knows and understands the most important overarching concepts of administrative law and he/she is expected to have a thorough knowledge of the administrative law of the European Union and of the influence of European law on the administrative law of the Member States. He/she is able to compare different administrative systems and draw critical conclusions from the analysis. He/she has practiced to independently conduct comparative research.

Prerequisites

This course builds upon the knowledge acquired in the courses Comparative Administrative Law, European Law I and, to a certain extent, European Law II.

European Private Law

Full course description

This course aims to make its participants familiar with the area of European Private Law. Only two decades ago, this aim would have been perceived as far too difficult to attain: until 1990 or so, there was no such thing as ‘the European Law of Contract’. Over the last decade however, scholarly efforts to build such a uniform contract law on the basis of comparative legal research coincided inter alia with the issuing of important European Directives in this field and the drafting of principles of contract law based on comparative research. These principles include the Principles of European Contract Law (PECL) and the Principles of European Law (PEL), dealing with topics such as sales and services contracts. These initiatives have not in themselves led to a great deal of uniform contract law for the European Union, but what has emerged is the idea (shared by many scholars and practitioners) that it is possible to come up with such a uniform law in the future. In any event, this has led to the assumption that European Contract Law can be taught at universities by uncovering the similarities and differences between the various European legal systems and by pointing at the unifying instruments that already exist. Recently (January 2008) a massive effort of scholarly work led to the publication of a Draft Common Frame of Reference of European Private Law (DCFR), based on the PECL and further comparative research. In 2009 a renewed and updated version of the DCFR was released and presented to the European Commission in the form of 6 volumes of over 6000 pages. An expert group worked to turn the (academic) DCFR into a (political) CFR, which could serve as a so-called optional instrument in the field of contract law. The result was a feasibility study that formed the basis for the European Commission’s proposal on a Common European Sales Law (CESL), which was proposed in October 2011.

The CESL has been the subject of a heavy debate among academics, but also among politicians and Member States. The European Parliament was relatively happy with the Commission’s proposal, but it soon became clear that the Commission’s proposal would not make it in Council. Hence, when the Juncker Commission started late 2014 it revoked the CESL proposal. Instead, under a new thematic approach the European Commission under the digital agenda, the Commission launched a proposal on digital sales.

Moreover, in October 2008, the European Commission proposed a draft Directive, which aimed to replace some of the existing contract law Directives, seeking more coherence. The interesting thing about this draft directive is that the European Commission is changing its approach from minimum harmonisation to full (or maximum) harmonisation and is under fierce attack for it. A new and less ambitious draft was published in 2011, which was also adopted in October 2011.

By far the largest body of European Contract Law deals with consumers. This is mostly due to the nature of European legislation. After all, the European legislature must show aim and reason before it can issue harmonising measures. Therefore, activities are employed at different levels. The European Commission is organised in several Directorates-General (DG’s) (perhaps best compared to the ministries of the Member States) that operate on a semi-autonomous basis. Of course there is coordination between the DG’s, and there is – of course – some steering from the College of Commissioners (the full meeting of all Members of the European Commission), but – and this has been a major criticism in the past – this coordination has not always been successful. At least, part of the fragmentary character of European Contract Law at present can be attributed to bad coordination.

Because of this competence-oriented approach, consumer law takes a central place in the field of European contract law. In European Union parlance, this part of the law deals with contracts between businesses and consumers, so-called ‘B2C’ transactions. In addition to this, there are also European initiatives taken that deal more with commercial relationships, so-called ‘B2B’ (business to business) transactions.

CESL and the digital sales proposal have provided us a glance at what the European Private Law of the future can look like, certainly combined with other legislative initiatives taken by the Commission, such as the Consumer Rights Directive. However, at the same time these proposals also show the limit of what the EU is politically able to achieve in this area. It is that future that is the central focus point of this course.

In this course you will, after 2 weeks of introduction be part of a EU Council of Ministers Working Party on civil justice dealing with a fictive proposal on a European Private law prepared by a group of students representing the European Commission. You can have influence on the delegation you are part of for this course, which can be presiding over meetings (teaching leadership), the European Commission, a number of Member States and a special institute of Law and Economics with special advisory powers. The course is finalised by a simulation of a COREPER II negotiation session during a whole day in the exam week.

Course objectives

At the end of this course you will have

- Knowledge of existing EU private law as well as knowledge about future initiatives
- Knowledge and understanding of the European private law debate
- Understanding of the relationship between EU law and national law in the area of private law
- Acquired and demonstrated basic negotiation skills and the ability to apply these in an EU private law setting.

Prerequisites

Prerequisites: None, but a course in national or comparative contract law, property law and/or tort law is preferred.

Preknowledge: Pre-requisite knowledge of private law is helpful, but not necessary. Also a basic course in EU law, both institutional and substantive, is helpful but not required.

Law is a very effective means for ordering society and influencing the behavior of individuals. This is why a critical reflection and evaluation of law and legal systems is important. The field of legal philosophy and theory offers the opportunity to do so. Consequently, this course aims to introduce students to questions of legal philosophy and theory, such as "What is (the nature of) law?", "Is an unjust law still law?", or "What is justice?" and "What is the right thing to do?" and to familiarize them with possible answers and arguments. As such, the focus is on philosophical debates on the basis of reasoned conclusions rather than unreflective presuppositions.

Course objectives

- Acquaint students with questions of legal philosophy and theory
- Acquaint students with possible answers and arguments
- Induce critical thinking about the nature of law and justice
- Train students to correctly use basic philosophical concepts in reasoning.

Kostprijsverhogende Belastingen

Full course description

Het vakgebied Kostprijsverhogende belastingen omvat diverse belastingen zoals omzetbelasting, accijnzen, milieuheffingen, de overdrachtsbelasting, bijzondere verbruiksbelastingen enz. Het blok kostprijsverhogende belastingen is met name toegespitst op de omzetbelasting. Van genoemde belastingen is de omzetbelasting (btw) zowel in maatschappelijk als in wetenschappelijk opzicht de belangrijkste. Elke ondernemer heeft ermee te maken. De nationale opbrengst bedraagt meer dan € 40 miljard. De omzetbelasting wordt grotendeels beheerst door Europese regelgeving en door de rechtspraak van het Hof van Justitie van de Europese Unie. De harmonisering van de omzetbelasting, die sinds 1967 voortgeschordt en in 1993 de afschaffing van de fysieke grenscontroles met zich bracht, staat in dienst van de verdere realisering van de interne markt waarop gelijke concurrentievoorwaarden gelden. Het systeem van heffing, het toepassingsbereik, de structuur van de regelgeving, alle fiscaal relevante elementen ter vaststelling van een belastingsschuld, zelfs detailregels en begrippen zijn Europees vastgelegd. Voorzover er onduidelijkheden in de toepassing van regels rijzen wordt de regelgeving vaak door het Hof van Justitie van de Europese Unie uitgelegd. De Btw-richtlijnen zijn tot de Lid-Staten gericht, maar ondernemers kunnen er rechten aan onttrekken. Aan de hand van casuspositites maakt u kennis met het systeem van de omzetbelasting en het belang ervan voor ondernemers. De kernelementen van de btw komen aan bod: belastingplicht, belastbaar feit, plaats van de prestatie, vrijstellingen, aftrek van voorbelasting en grensoverschrijdende transacties. Daarnaast wordt diepgaand de onroerende-zaakproblematiek behandeld in samenhang met de overdrachtsbelasting. Gedurende het blok worden interactieve colleges gegeven (1 x per week). De te behandelen casus in de werkgroepen hebben een tweeledig doel. Zij ondersteunen de studenten bij de oefening om uit de feitelijkheid de fiscaal-juridische problemen te herkennen. Dit en het verder analyseren en oplossen van de casus beoogt tevens het vlak waarbinnen de casus of de rechtsvraag speelt, te leren kennen als deel van het geheel (bijv. plaats en functie van vrijstellingen, of, de allocatie van ondernemersactiviteiten als probleem van internationale afbakening, enz.). Daarmee verwerft men ook overzicht met betrekking tot de achtergronden van de regelgeving.

Law in Europe: from Gaius until the EU

Full course description

In this course the history of, primarily, Private law in Europe will be dealt with, from Gaius until the EU. Common roots, such as Roman law, Canon law, Humanism and Natural law will be discussed; the codification process in the 19th century will be investigated; and the consequences of the creation of the EU for Private law will be studied.

Course objectives

The student is able to discuss the common legal past of the various European states; he/she is aware of the dependency of law on time and place; The student has knowledge of the differences between Justinianic law and Classical Roman law, and has an understanding of the reception of Roman law in medieval Europe; The student has insight in the influence of Roman, Canon and Feudal law, Legal Humanism and Natural law on the civil and common law systems; The student comprehends the 19th century codification process and is able to form a reasoned point of view about the harmonisation of (Private) law in Europe; The student is able to communicate in writing about the history of Private law in Europe.

Het blok bestaat uit twee delen, te weten het deel winst uit onderneming dat in de onderwijsbijeenkomsten aan bod komt en anderzijds het Practicum Tax accounting dat tijdens de colleges behandeld wordt. De onderwijsbijeenkomsten zullen beginnen met de bestudering van de personen die winst uit onderneming en resultaat uit overige werkzaamheden genieten. Na de afbakening van het fiscale begrip onderneming wordt aandacht besteed aan de diverse aspecten van de fiscale winstbepaling. Hiernaast gaan de colleges van het practicum Tax Accounting lopen waarbij ingegaan wordt op de afleiding van de fiscale winst uit de vennootschappelijke of bedrijfseconomische winst, met andere woorden de fiscale comptabiliteit. Ter voorbereiding op deze colleges dienen opdrachten uitgewerkt te worden. In het kader van het goed koopmansgebruik komen o.a. de vermogensetikettering, de ondernemingskosten, vrijstellingen en de foutenleer aan de orde. Daarna zal de aandacht gericht worden op de fiscale balanswaardering (voorraad, onderhanden werk, debiteuren, bedrijfsmiddelen en afschrijvingen, fiscale reserves, voorzieningen) en op de belastingfaciliteiten voor ondernemers. Tenslotte zal diepgaand aandacht besteed worden aan bedrijfsoverdracht, firmaproblemen, de oudeboekswaarde, de ouderdagsvoorziening voor ondernemers en de staking van ondernemingen (met aandacht voor overlijdenswinst, inbreng in man-vrouwspaar en doorschuiving in familiesfeer). Na afsluiting van dit blok weet de student wanneer sprake is van ondernemerschap, kan de student de fiscale winst van een onderneming bepalen en is hij in staat de staking van een onderneming fiscaal te begeleiden. Ook is de student in staat te adviseren bij investeringsbeslissingen.

Course objectives

Doelstelling van dit blok is het verwerven van een grondige kennis inzake de fiscale winstbepaling in de inkomstenbelasting en de winstbepaling in de jaarrekening.

Comparative Administrative Law

Full course description

The primary purposes of administrative law are: a) to empower the government to put its policies into effect and b) to keep the powers of the government within their legal boundaries, so as to protect citizens against their abuse.

The course Comparative Administrative Law provides an introduction into the general administrative law of France, Germany, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom (mainly England & Wales). The course concentrates on the following themes: 1) the administrative decision-making process and its outcome; 2) the general principles regulating administrative decision-making; 3) the access to administrative courts; 4) the remedies against the administration.
Course objectives

The primary purpose of this course is for students to acquire a basic knowledge of the administrative law systems of France, Germany, the Netherlands and the UK. Furthermore, specific differences and similarities between the four systems of administrative law will be analysed.

Atrocity Triangle: A course on the Criminology of Gross Human Rights Violations

Full course description

The first part of the course introduces the leading concepts and theoretical frameworks that will structure the course. The course therefore firstly addresses the concept of the ‘atrocity triangle’ and it looks into the relationship between the three actors (the perpetrator, the victim, and the bystander) involved in the triangle. Subsequently, an integrated criminological model will be introduced which sets out the relevant etiological elements that will be addressed in greater detail in the second part of the course.

The second part of the course, which focuses on the perpetrators, will start with the forms, functions and effects of (political) violence and the concept of torture in particular. The analysis continues on the macro level and addresses the role of policy and ideology. Subsequent analysis focusses on the meso level and the role of military organizations and other institutions is discussed. In this context attention is paid to the influence of military training and we will discuss how with the help of a bureaucratic system genocide can be planned, organized and carried out. The discussion will thus address several compulsive and determinative features of the environment surrounding perpetrators of gross human rights violations. We will furthermore discuss several experiments (Milgram, Ash, Stanford, etc.) on obedience, institutional roles and conformity, but we will also address other social-psychological mechanisms which are helpful in understanding how and why people are able to participate in the perpetration of gross human rights violations. Lastly, the important role that language and discourse plays in conflict and international crime is highlighted.

The third part of the course will focus on the bystander. We will start the discussion on the role of the bystander by looking into the phenomenon of the ‘the bystander effect’ in order to address the question why bystanders fail to act. Secondly, the role of bystanders in international politics at the macro-level of both states and international organizations in the field of human rights will be discussed. We will give special attention to the role of the UN Security Council when it was confronted with gross human rights violations. Lastly, in addition to perpetrators and bystanders (collaborators), certain actors in the same situations did not perpetrate or passively stood by, instead they took affirmative action and came to the help of those in need. We will therefore look more closely into the phenomenon of rescuing in order to find out what turns actors into rescuers.

The fourth and last part of the course will take a more victimological perspective, which focuses on the position of the victim. Who are the victims and why are they victimized? What is the relationship between these victims and their perpetrators and what are the consequences of this relationship? In this context specific attention will be paid to gender selective violence. More particularly, the phenomena of rape as a ‘weapon of war’ and gendercide (gender selective mass killings) will be discussed. Also, the complex case of child soldiers will be addressed as they are victims and perpetrators at the same time.

Several lectures will be held during this course. These lectures will be used to illustrate the discussed materials and to provide the participants with a deeper understanding of the subject matter by presenting the linkage between theory and (research) practice. During the lectures, various guest speakers will address the subject matter from the practitioner’s perspective. In addition, we will screen a number of documentaries that will be analyzed during the post-discussion. We hope that, through these documentaries, the subject matter of this course will become more accessible and less abstract.

Case studies play an important role throughout the course and we will therefore pay attention to a wide variety of cases including The Holocaust and other cases of genocide (Armenia, Australia, Cambodia, Rwanda, Srebrenica, Darfur, etc.). Although cases of genocide will play an important role in this course, the caseload is certainly not limited to genocide and other violent conflicts will be addressed as well. Here one could think of the following cases, Chili, Argentina, Guatemala, Indonesia, East Timor, Iraq, Syria, Congo, Central African Republic, etc. Not to forget the torture practices of the U.S.

The insights gathered throughout this course have policy implications and inform us how we could react to gross human rights violations once they have occurred. These policy implications are addressed in greater detail during another UCM course titled The aftermath of atrocity: A course on transitional justice and post-conflict reconstruction (SSC 3052) which will be taught during the spring semester in period 5.

Course objectives

- To gain a criminological understanding of gross human rights violations and other international crimes by examining their causes on individual (micro), institutional (meso), national and international (macro) levels using a criminological approach that integrates relevant insights from different disciplines (social psychology, sociology, victimology, history, international relations, international law and psychology).

- Moreover, to view the world through the eyes of the perpetrators as well as the victims and the bystanders by focusing on their roles in the occurrence of gross human rights violations.
- To make insightful the linkage between gross human rights violations and violent conflicts in the world.
- To gain an understanding of how to approach the criminological study of complex cases of violence and to be able to analyze such cases independently.

Comparative Income and Business Taxation

Full course description

This course provides an introduction to the legal structure and design of tax systems. We will first focus on the basic principles of tax systems and elements of the tax base (deductions, attribution of income). There will be a particular focus on taxing personal income (from labour and capital) and corporate income (like interest, royalties and dividends). We will then address selected issues of doing business abroad like double taxation as well as taxation of cross-border workers. Basic anti-tax-avoidance legislation will also be addressed as will elements of European (tax) law. This course will not focus on any country in particular, allowing this to be a real principle-based and comparative
Course objectives

- Students should be able to understand and explain basic principles of personal and corporate income taxation from both a government as well as a taxpayer perspective.
- Students should gain a basic understanding of principles of international tax law, the role of tax treaties and certain elements of EU law.
- Students should be able to recognize a select number of issues related to taxation of businesses and employment.

Introduction to International Human Rights

Full course description

In this course we look at human rights from the perspective of international law: the obligations of states to uphold universal standards and the mechanisms in place to transform national injustices into international concerns giving rise to recommendations (but hardly sanctions) to governments, as well as accountability tools for civil society. These obligations and mechanisms were created after 1948, when the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations (UN). Human rights are a universal language intended to end discrimination and violence, reduce human suffering and promote human development. Much has been achieved, in only a few decades, in international law. But even more needs to be done in the national practice of states, in our own and other countries, through the concerted efforts of all of us as responsible members of a global community and its human rights instruments.

Course objectives

Generally:

To provide a basic introduction to international (UN) human rights norms and institutions in (UN) human rights treaties and related documents.

Specifically:

1. Understanding the juridical nature of international (UN) human rights norms as (mainly) legal principles to be ‘translated’ into national norms and policies and to be operationalized as such.
2. Understanding the nature of international (UN) human rights mechanisms in terms of diplomatic dialogue and moral-political accountability.
3. Understanding the crucial and critical contribution of civil society (NGOs) in relation to 1 and 2 above.
5. Being able to distinguish between, and becoming familiar with, treaty- and UN Charter-based mechanisms (especially, special procedures and UPR).
6. Being able to apply international (UN) human rights norms with critical reasoning and legal argumentation, especially in relation to large-scale and structural violations, including those in high-income states.

Prerequisites

Bachelor level law, including a course on international law: students must have followed one or more international law courses.

Inleiding Nederlands Straf- en Strafprocesrecht

Volledige cursusomschrijving

Dit blok is bedoeld als een inleiding tot het Nederlandse strafrecht en strafprocesrecht. Het beoogt elementair inzicht te geven in de structuur, beginselen en regels van het strafrechtelijk systeem, waarbij eerst aandacht wordt besteed aan het formele strafrecht en daarna aan het materiële strafrecht. Tijdens de eerste vier bijeenkomsten komen de belangrijkste leerstukken van het formele strafrecht aan bod. Het formele strafrecht, grotendeels geregeld in het Wetboek van Strafvoering, kan worden begrepen als het geheel van rechtsregels betreffende de opsporing, vervolging en berechting van personen die ervan worden verdacht een strafbaar feit te hebben gepleegd. In het formele strafrechtelijke deel komen achtereenvolgens de volgende onderwerpen aan de orde: de diverse fasen en actoren van het strafproces, het verdenkingsbegrip, opsporingsbevoegdheden, vrijheidsbenemende dwangmiddelen, fouillering en doorzoekings, vervolging, de systematiek van artikelen 348-350 Sv, regeling met betrekking tot getuigen en beginselen van bewijsrecht. Tijdens de drie volgende bijeenkomsten komen de belangrijkste leerstukken van het materiële strafrecht aan bod. Als er wordt gesproken over materieel strafrecht dan heeft men het over de vraag wat een strafbaar feit is. Dit deel van het strafrecht wordt voor een belangrijk deel gevonden in het Wetboek van Strafrecht, maar ook in bijzondere wetten, zoals de Opiumwet. In dit materieelrechtelijk deel wordt aandacht besteed aan de volgende onderwerpen. Na een bijeenkomst over het legaliteitsbeginsel en het leerstuk van causaliteit wordt aandacht besteed aan de verschillende schuldvormen en de strafuitsluitingsgronden. Daarna komen leerstukken in beeld die leiden tot een nadere definitie van de personen die bij een strafbaar feit betrokken kunnen zijn. Het gaat dan om onderwerpen als poging, voorbereiding en deelnemingsvormen, zoals uitlokking en medeplichtigheid. De belangrijkste onderwijsvormen in dit blok betreffen de onderwijsbijeenkomsten (1 x 2 uur per week) en een drietal hoorcolleges. De taken, opdrachten en aanwijzingen in alle genoemde onderwijsvormen behoren tot de verplichte leerstof van het blok.

Verzamelde leesboeken

Het voorgeschreven basisboek in dit blok is: M.J. Kronenberg en B. de Wilde, Grondtrekken van het Nederlandse strafrecht, Kluwer, laatste druk Daarnaast zijn de in het literatuurboek opgenomen teksten en de colleges deel van de verplichte leerstof.

Inleiding Nederlands Privaatrecht

Full course description

Het blok Inleiding Privaatrecht begint met een kort overzicht van het gehele privaatrecht en een inleiding tot kernbegrippen van het vermogensrecht. Daarna volgt een korte inleiding in het overeenkomstenrecht. Het grootste deel van het blok is gewijd aan het goederenrecht waarbij onder andere het leerstuk van de overdracht uitvoerig wordt behandeld, zowel voor onroerende als roerende zaken en vorderingen. De derdenbescherming van de verkrijger te goeder trouw wordt behandeld aan de hand van onroerende en roerende zaken. Wat onroerende zaken betreft komt ook de rol van de openbare registers en het kadaster naar voren en verkrijging van een onroerende zaak door verjaring. Tenslotte wordt ook veel aandacht besteed aan beperkte rechten (onder andere opstal, erfpacht en erfdenstbaarheid) en kwalitatieve verplichtingen en kettingbedingingen. De te behandelen stof is verdeeld over de onderwijsgroepen en colleges.

Full course description

Whether or not procedural law in the European Union should be harmonised is a matter of debate. A discussion of this question is not possible without a thorough knowledge of (1) the existing procedures in the Member States of the Union, (2) the origins of these procedures and (3) the differences between these procedures and their similarities. Within the European Union at least three procedural families may be distinguished: those which have developed around the French Code de procédure civile, the ones of the German-speaking countries and finally the systems which belong to the Common Law family. The characteristics of each procedural family will be discussed. In discussing these characteristics, the civil procedure of France, Germany and England will be studied in some detail. Special attention is given to the question how these systems deal with the requirements of Article 6 (and 13) of the European Convention of Human Rights and with fundamental principles of procedure in general. Subsequently the differences between the three procedural families and their similarities will be evaluated. It will appear that most similarities can be explained on the basis of the origin of particular procedural rules. The final part of the course addresses the question whether or not approximation of procedural law is desirable and, if it is desirable, in what particular manner approximation can be achieved. In this context, the Principles of Transnational Civil Procedure of ALI/UNIDROIT will be discussed.

Course objectives

To provide students with an insight in the character and goals of civil procedure; To provide students with knowledge of the basic principles of civil procedure in Europe; To provide students with knowledge of Articles 6 and 13 ECHR and the case law of the ECtHR; To provide students with knowledge of harmonised European rules on civil procedure; To provide students with knowledge of the ALI/Unidroit Transnational Principles of Civil Procedure; To provide students with knowledge of civil procedure in England & Wales, Germany and France from a comparative perspective; To make students aware of the fundamental similarities and differences in civil procedure in Europe; To provide students with an insight into the historical development of civil procedure in Europe; To provide students with an insight into the current debate on harmonisation of civil procedure; To provide students with knowledge of the advantages and disadvantages of the tools available for harmonising the law of procedure; To enable students to formulate well-founded opinions on civil procedural issues in a comparative perspective.

European Human Rights

Full course description

In this course the focus will be on the protection of human rights in Europe. Attention will be paid to various aspects of the European Convention on Human Rights and especially the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights. The content of various human rights will be studied, like for example the right to life, the prohibition of torture, the right to liberty and the freedom of expression. Also the supervisory mechanism of the European Convention will be discussed as well as some general concepts and doctrines like positive obligations and the margin of appreciation.

Course objectives

Introduction to protection of human rights under the European Convention and increasing the knowledge and understanding of the subject by reading a text book and judgments of the court. Also judgments of the Court and cases in the course book are discussed and analysed.

Crime and Criminal Policy

Full course description

This course addresses the problem of crime and the societal reaction to it from both a criminological and a criminal law point of view. In the course attention is paid to four interrelated themes: (1) the concept of crime (what is crime?), (2) the genesis of crime policy, (3) crime control in the modern risk society, and the (4) impact of this paradigm on the development of substantive criminal law.

These four themes will be discussed on the basis of different phenomena: moral panic and sex offenders, the use of preventive (terrorist) offences, the influence of neuroscience on criminal law, regulating prostitution, and environmental crime. This allows us to illustrate, via different forms of crime, some specific developments and recent challenges within criminal policy and criminal law, instead of just focusing on one specific category of crimes. It is important to realize that in most sessions an explicit comparative methodology will be used. This helps us to understand that there may be different societal reactions to similar (legal) problems. Also, specific attention will be given on some criminal policy issues from the perspective of recent EU legislation, e.g. within the field of environmental crime and the fight against terrorism.

Course objectives

The course Crime and Criminal Policy invites students to reflect on various aspects with regard to the definition of crime and the development of criminal policy and criminal law. The students are challenged to scrutinize the basic elements of the concept of crime, the origins of crime policy, the rationale behind the contemporary response to crime and its implications on the development of criminal law.

Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to:

- to understand the basic elements of the social construction of crime
- to reflect on the relation between the process of criminalization and the protection of human rights and civil liberties
- to comprehend the rationale behind the current fight against and prevention of crime
- to understand the consequences of the contemporary crime control paradigm for the development of substantive criminal law
Prerequisites

Basic knowledge of the concepts and principles of substantive criminal law is required

Neurosciences and Law

Full course description

This course introduces students to the new interdisciplinary field of law, neuroscience and philosophy. It uses an integrative approach by addressing the relevancy of potential applications of neuroscience in the fields of both criminal law and civil law. The course aims, inter alia, to assist students in critically reflecting on the present and future possibilities pertaining to the intersection between law and neuroscience. It also explores how neuroscientific research may challenge the foundations and conditions of criminal and civil (tort) liability. The main themes of the course include the following: the neuroscientific challenge to free will and responsibility; the scientific and legal view on human agency and personhood; diagnosing and assessing mental capacities and disabilities; legal decision-making and the use of neurological evidence in court; neuroscience and human rights and finally, the predictive and rehabilitative use of neuroscientific techniques.

This elective is also part of the minor Human and Legal Decision-Making which consists of four complementary courses; neurosciences & law, neuropsychology & law, economic psychology and methodological aspects of studying human and legal decision-making and neurosciences.

Course objectives

Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to:
• understand the basic conditions of criminal and private law liability
• understand the different philosophical positions on the free will and determinism debate
• reflect on the neuroscientific challenges to free will, human agency and legal responsibility;
• understand the relevance of neuroscientific techniques as a diagnostic tool in order to determine mental capacities and disabilities;
• understand how neurosciences can contribute to our knowledge of judicial decision making
• assess the value and limitations of neuroscientific evidence in court cases
• reflect on the value of neuroscientific techniques as a predictive tool for risk assessment
• reflect on the use of neuroscientific techniques (especially direct brain interventions) to modify the brain in order to enhance people’s responsibility

Prerequisites

Although there are no prerequisites for this course, we expect good English language and writing skills. Also, some basic legal knowledge is necessary to understand the main topics of this course. Therefore, in the first week some introductory lectures will be given on the basic concepts of criminal and private law. In addition, students without any knowledge of law are required to study additionally chapters 2,4, and 6 from J. Hage & B. Akkermans (eds), Introduction to law, Springer, 2014 and chapters 1, 3 and 6 from J. Keiler & D. Roef (eds.), Comparative Concepts of Criminal Law, Cambridge, Intersentia, 2016. This additional literature will be made available in a reader.

Students report spending an average of 12 hours for each session.

Recommended reading

The literature for this course consists of state-of-the-art articles on neurolaw. It is indicated for each session which reading materials should be studied beforehand.

Methodological, Theoretical and Practical Aspects of Research on Human and Legal Decision-Making and Neurosciences

Full course description

This course highlights the significance of collecting empirical evidence on neuroscientific factors and processes relevant for the study of human and legal decision-making. Data is generally collected using various instruments, such as neuropsychological assessments, brain imaging techniques as well as resting heart rate measurement. The acquisition of empirical evidence not only increases one's knowledge about these factors but also reduces the likelihood of reliance on ‘neuro-myths’. This course not only discusses these and other techniques of data collection from different perspectives – methodology, applicability and ethical aspects – but also invites the students to work with some of these measurement instruments themselves and collect ‘real data’. Data collection in one way or another is related to models or theories about human and legal decision-making. During the course, several of these ‘models of man’ will be analyzed and confronted with sound evidence from research and with explanatory, theories about the role of neuroscientific factors in legal and human decision-making. Collaboration is foreseen with the WODC – also known as the National Institute for Applied Security and Justice Research - in particular in relation to its work on brain & cognition studies and the neurolaw database.

This elective is also part of the minor Human and Legal Decision-Making which consists of four complementary courses; neurosciences & law, neuropsychology & law, economic psychology and methodological aspects of studying human and legal decision-making and neurosciences.

Course objectives

Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to:

- understand and critically reflect upon neuro-biological/ psychological methods that can be used to study and inform human and legal decision making (processes)
- to work with some of the measurement instruments and collect ‘real data’
- to understand the characteristics, applicability, reliability, validity and ethical aspects of different neuro-biological/psychological methods;
- to critically reflect upon the relationship between models of man, scientific theories and empirical research in this field.

Prerequisites

Although there are no prerequisites for this course, we expect good English language and writing skills. Furthermore, some basic knowledge of psychology, scientific methodology, and of neuroscience is useful to understand the topics of this course. Students who are not acquainted with these subjects are therefore required to study some introductory literature that will be made available during this

Inleiding Ondernemings- en Faillissementsrecht

Full course description

In het ondernemingsrechtelijke deel van dit blok wordt een overzicht gegeven van de belangrijkste basisbegrippen van het ondernemingsrecht. Onderwerpen die daarbij aan de orde komen zijn: de juridische organisatie van een onderneming (rechtsvormen, organen en bevoegdheden), de vertegenwoordigingsbevoegdheid, verantwoordelijkheid en aansprakelijkheid, en het kapitaal en vermogen van de vennootschap. De focus is met name gericht op de kapitaalvennootschappen – de naamloze vennootschap en besloten vennootschap – maar ook de personenvennootschappen, de vereniging en stichting komen aan bod. De te behandelen stof is verdeeld over onderwijsgroepen en enkele colleges. In het tweede deel van dit blok staat het faillissementsrecht centraal. Aandacht wordt besteed aan het doel van het faillissement en de gevolgen ervan voor de gefailleerde, zijn vermogen en zijn schuldeisers. Besproken wordt wat er wel en niet in de boedel valt en hoe en door wie die wordt beheerd en vereffend. Er zal kort gekeken worden waarom de surseance van betaling niet functioneert zoals de wetgever dat voor ogen had, terwijl de schuldsaneringsregeling voor natuurlijke personen iets uitgebreider aan de orde komt. Het blok wordt afgesloten met de bestudering van de manier waarop het vermogen van de failliete (rechts) persoon wordt verdeeld en de rangorde die hierbij geldt.

Course objectives

Aan het eind van dit blok hebben de deelnemers grondige basiskennis en inzicht verworven van het Nederlandse ondernemingsrecht en faillissementsrecht

Inleiding Arbeids- en Sociaal Zekerheidsrecht

Full course description

Gedurende vier bijeenkomsten worden studenten ingewijd in de beginselen van het arbeidsrecht en het sociaalzekerheidsrecht. Aan de orde komen de kenmerken van het arbeidsrecht, de arbeidsovereenkomst, flexibele arbeidsrelaties, werken en loon (waaronder ziekte), medezeggenschapsrecht, cao-recht, ontslagrecht en werkloosheid.

Course objectives

Het vak Inleiding in het Arbeidsrecht en het Recht van de Sociale Zekerheid beoogt studenten kennis te laten maken met een aantal grondbeginselen en kernthema’s van zowel het arbeidsrecht als het recht met betrekking tot de sociale zekerheid. Een eerste belangrijke vraag is wat het arbeids(overeenkomsten)recht onderscheidt van het gewone verbintenissenrecht. Twee grondbeginselen van het arbeidsrecht, de beschermingsgedachte en de ongelijkheidscompensatie komen in dit kader aan bod. Bezien wordt onder meer waar het arbeidsrecht afwijkt van het gewone verbintenissenrecht, wat de redenen zijn voor deze afwijkingen en hoe de afwijkingen technisch vorm zijn gegeven. Ook wordt ingegaan op de zogenaamde atypische arbeidsrelaties, zoals de uitzendrelatie, de afroep- of oproepovereenkomst en het nul-uren-contract. Uiteraard wordt aandacht besteed aan een in de praktijk zeer relevant aspect, namelijk het ontslagrecht en de consequenties van het einde van de arbeidsovereenkomst voor de werknemer. Een ander belangrijk thema is de vraag wanneer een werknemer recht heeft op loon hoewel hij niet werkt. Te denken valt in dit kader bijvoorbeeld aan werktijdverkorting of de schorsing van de werknemer wegens wangedrag of disfunctioneren. En hoe zit het met het inkomen c.q. het voorzien in levensonderhoud op het moment dat een van de klassieke risico’s zich manifesteert waartegen de sociale zekerheid bescherming beoogt te bieden? Ook een zieke of werkloze werknemer moet immers in zijn levensonderhoud kunnen voorzien, toch? Een gebied met geheel eigen regels en actoren is het collectieve arbeidsrecht. Hier gaat het om de vraag wat de effecten zijn van het bestaan van een cao of een afspraak met de ondernemingsraad en wat zij voor de individuele werknemer kunnen betekenen.

Burgerlijk Procesrecht

Full course description

Het bloc biedt een eerste kennismaking met het Nederlandse burgerlijk procesrecht. De beginselen van het burgerlijk procesrecht, de functie daarvan en de meest voorkomende elementen van de procedure zullen centraal staan. Aan de orde komen de hoofdlijnen van de procedure in eerste aanleg en in appel (dagvaarding en verzoekschrift, kort geding), de stelplicht en bewijslast, de bewijslevering, het verschil tussen kantonzaken en “advocaatzaken”, de rechtsmiddelen, het beslag en de executie. De invloed van EU-regelgeving en art. 6 EVRM op het burgerlijk procesrecht wordt bij ieder onderdeel op inleidend niveau in kaart gebracht. Voorts wordt stil gestaan bij aanhangige wetgeving. Parallel aan het bloc is er een practicum (Rode Draad), waarin de verworven kennis in de praktijk wordt gebracht en tegelijkertijd legal skills kunnen worden getraind (opstellen processtukken, pleiten, leiden van zittingen). Het practicum begint met drie casus (de rode draad), van waaruit iedere practicumgroep eigen procesdossiers zal opbouwen.
Course objectives

Door het met succes volgen van het blok moet de student: - globale kennis hebben verworven van het burgerlijk procesrecht; - bekend zijn geraakt met de internationale dimensie van het burgerlijk procesrecht; - research kunnen verrichten voor het opstellen van processtukken die voldoen aan de formele eisen; - gevoel hebben gekregen voor de complicaties die zich in een civiele procedure kunnen voordoen; - eenvoudige procesrechtelijke problemen zelfstandig kunnen oplossen. Het volgen van dit vak is nodig voor het civiel effect.

Prerequisites

Er is geen specifieke voorkennis nodig. Omdat het een blok is in het tweede jaar wordt wel basale kennis van het Nederlandse recht verondersteld.

Europe: a critical reflection

Full course description

The concluding course brings the whole minor together. Equipped with the knowledge gained in the previous courses, students work in pairs on a comparative research paper. The course book provides students with broadly defined topic areas from the field of European Studies, allowing them to pick a topic of their own choosing. The tutorials accompany the writing process, providing common ground for discussion on key controversies in European Studies and on the methodology of comparative analysis. Lectures provide further food for thought on what it means to conduct critical research in European Studies. At a concluding conference, students present their findings to their peers.

Course objectives

At the end of this course students are trained in key academic processes: selecting a topic for research, developing a research design, writing a co-authored research paper and presenting in a conference setting.

The Idea of Europe

Full course description

This first course of the Minor European Studies curriculum has an introductory character. It touches on a number of issues which will be dealt with more extensively later on in the programme, but it also calls attention to a fundamental question concerning Europe: Does Europe exist? Does the name “Europe” refer to a political and/or cultural identity of its own? And if so, what are the distinguishing characteristics of this identity, what have been the decisive common experiences that have fostered a sense of European community, and how has it evolved in time?

Course objectives

At the end of this course, students will: • Have a basic overview of the development of the idea and identity of Europe, which can serve as a broad historical framework for understanding the process of European integration as it has occurred after 1945; • Be more familiar with specific characteristics of European history, notably in comparison with that of other (non-European) societies; • Have an understanding of some of the basic theoretical and methodological problems in dealing with this subject matter. Students are introduced to problems concerning the study of identity, especially the social and symbolic construction of community and identity, as well as corresponding notions of representation, invention of tradition, and ‘lieux de mémoire’. They are also made familiar - at a rudimentary level - with some of the most influential (and contested) theories in the historical study of society like Max Weber’s concept of rationality, Norbert Elias’ theory of civilisation, different views on modernisation (Sigmund Freud, Ernest Gellner, Zygmunt Bauman).

Back to the Sources

Full course description

This research training offers a first introduction to the ways historians deal with the problems of tracing, selecting and assessing primary sources, especially those related to the (early) history of European integration. During the course, the specific characteristics of the following types of primary sources are discussed: political speeches, archival records and public opinion sources. Also the specific problems of using internet sources are dealt with. Each of the three assignments is devoted to a specific problem and a specific category of historical sources: the assignment on political speeches is mainly devoted to the critical analysis of sources. The assignment on archival sources focuses on the problems of selecting and combining a variety of sources. Finally, the assignment on public opinion sources addresses the problems of representativity and influence.

Course objectives

This training stimulates a critical and methodical attitude towards sources. At the end of this training, students will be able to: • Differentiate between primary and secondary sources; • Appreciate the importance of primary sources for the study of historical phenomena; • Recognise the different characteristics and pitfalls of several types of primary sources.

Full course description

The main aim of this course is to provide students with a basic understanding of the European Union: its development, its institutional framework and current problems. First, this course introduces the European integration process since the early 1950s. Using the current debate on the future of the Union as our point of departure, this course goes back to the early years of the European Communities and subsequently traces all the major developments in the EU up to the present. Secondly, we investigate the institutions of the European Union, their tasks and the main decision-making mechanisms. Finally, current political challenges of European integration are put up for debate. Throughout the whole course, students, additionally, get familiarized with the main European integration theories.

Course objectives

To provide insight into the historical development, the EU institutions, decision-making processes and current issues of the EU, and to get familiar with integration theories.

Negotiation Skills

Full course description

This six-week training is organised around three simulation games, which allow students to improve their negotiation skills and to better understand the practicalities of decision-making processes in Brussels. The purpose of this skills training course is threefold: 1) to provide a basic introduction to the main concepts of negotiation and negotiation theories; 2) to improve students’ negotiation skills; 3) to arrive at a better understanding of EU decision-making (public vs. foreign policy-making, the composition and competencies of various institutions, interaction between institutions, interactions within the Council etc.).

Course objectives

By the end of the course, students will: • Gain a better understanding of the decision-making in Brussels; • Gain new knowledge on the theory of negotiations; • Improve their negotiation skills in practice

Corequisites

• Europe: a critical reflection

Law and Art: The Free Movement of Cultural Property

Full course description

Law and Art - The Free Movement of Cultural Property is a course analysing the trade in artworks and cultural objects and their protection against various forms of threats from a legal perspective. Artworks speak to our imagination and either fascinate or irritate (or bore) us and in the public discourse in the media it is the uniqueness of artworks that is emphasised: their uniqueness, their representation of the artistic genius, expressions of the human condition... But art works are also goods: material objects that can be valued in money. This dual character of artworks combining their economic value with a higher or aesthetic value is what makes artworks particularly interesting to study from a legal perspective. Another challenge for the law is the fact that the art trade (legal and illicit) is a truly international market. Since artworks are relatively easy to take across borders, stolen or looted art objects can show up all over the globe. To add to the difficulties, laws affecting the art trade differ from country to country. This is especially true for export regulations, the rules on the bona fide purchase and limitation periods. The position of the bona fide purchaser is a delicate issue. Who should be protected and for how long? Must a bona fide purchaser return a stolen painting? Which law applies if more than one jurisdiction is involved? These examples show that this course deals with many different areas of law: International and European law, Private and Private International Law, Public as well as Criminal Law. But you can easily widen the legal fields having a relation to the art market, such as for example Intellectual Property Law or Tax Law. The course will examine a broad spectrum of issues including the protection of cultural property during times of war against destruction and removal as well as their restitution; the protection of cultural property in times of peace against illegal export and the illicit trade; The European dimension of cultural policies will be addressed including the free movement of cultural property in the European Union, media policies, resale royalty legislation, state aid and the cultural sector. Additionally, the question of cultural diversity and the issue of authenticity and fakes as well as the international and European legislative developments concerning stolen, illicitly excavated, exported and looted works of art will be discussed. In the first week, there is a general introduction, in which the organisation of the course is explained and the work on International Art Trade and the Law is commenced. As reading material we shall use Kurt Siehr, International Art Trade and the Law, Recueil des Cours 1993, Vol. 243 (to be found in the library), the book of Katja Lubina, Looted Art (electronically available on ELEUM and provided as PDF by e-mail) and different articles on ELEUM. During the course period, Maastricht will be the host of the TEFAF (13th – 22nd of March 2015), the most important international fine art fair in Europe. In the past, several art experts have come to provide a lecture during the course, and visiting the TEFAF with the newly gained insights into the art market, will be even more impressive. A special conference will be organized at the end of the TEFAF on the 22nd and 23rd of March. One does not have to be an art lover to find the course Law and Art - The Free Movement of Cultural Property an interesting choice. Compassion for art is therefore not a condition, just an extra. Even a philistine would enjoy the intriguing art law cases and legal problems. Participants will in principal be assessed on the basis of a paper in the area of art law /cultural heritage law. The paper should be written according to academic standards. The paper should include a literature list. References should be in footnote format. This course is also part of an interfaculty MINOR

Course objectives

Aim of the course is to making students aware of legal problems concerning the licit ant illicit art market. Students will become familiar with various areas of law all related to art, cultural property and heritage (international and European law, Private international Law, property law, contract and tort law, tax law and regulations concerning the art market etc.

Prerequisites

Basis knowledge of law. This project is open for students of the faculties of LAW, Arts and Culture and UCM and Erasmus students

Private International Law

Full course description

Private International Law (PIL) provides a set of legal rules where one or more of the parties, facts or circumstances related to a legal dispute are connected with more than one legal system. Private International Law in particular provides: 1. legal rules which establish when a national court has international jurisdiction in any case involving an international element; 2. legal rules which determine the applicable law in cases involving international elements heard before a national court; and 3. legal rules on recognition and enforcement of foreign court judgments in another country. Since each country has its own Private International Law rules, Private International Law originally is domestic law. Other influential sources of PIL are international treaties and, more increasingly, EU-regulations. Private International Law has become even more significant as a result of increasing integration within the European Union and because of globalization (of trade and free movement). This course in particular focuses on the European perspective of Private International Law. Hence it includes: 1. an examination of the general structure, main doctrines, principles and topics (family law, goods, contractual/non-contractual obligations) of PIL from the EU-perspective; 2. an introduction to the most important EU-regulations and international treaties on Private International Law such as the Regulation 593/2008 on the law applicable to contractual obligations, Regulation 864/2007 on the law applicable to non-contractual obligations, Regulation 2201/2003 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in matrimonial matters and the matters of parental responsibility and Regulation 4/2009 on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of decisions and co-operation in matters relating to maintenance obligations. 3. an overview of the historical development of Private International Law. Attention will also be paid to current Private International Law codifications in several EU-member states as illustration of PIL’s originally domestic character. For the purposes of this course Private International Law is understood in a broad sense, thus including the conflict of laws and the law of international civil procedure.

Course objectives

The general aim of the course is to provide students with an understanding of the problems inherent in legal situations involving (a) crossborder element(s) in Europe. The students will gain knowledge of the basic principles and legal rules of Private International Law from the European perspective as well as of its historical developments.

Prerequisites

Basic knowledge of law in general.

What is art? What is good art? What is the value of art and culture? Why and how should the government support or not support the arts: which art, whose culture? How about cultural participation? These are the main questions of this interdisciplinary course which will provide the students with knowledge and analytical tools necessary for understanding the many different answers to the questions. The course combines an introduction in relevant literature and theories (art history, cultural history, cultural economics, sociology of culture) with real life case studies. Students will do some collective field work by preparing and conducting an interview with a professional in the arts and culture sector Instruction language. The approach is international and comparative.

Economic Psychology

Full course description

"Increasingly, economists are discovering psychology as a means to enrich their models of economic behaviour and well-being and to give them a better foundation. The importance of this is illustrated by the fact that the Nobel prize winner in economics in 2002 was the distinguished psychologist Daniel Kahneman. He characterizes his research as a quest for the ‘logic of the irrational’. Adam Smith already recognized that economic, just like other, behaviour is motivated by an intriguing blend of ‘rational’ considerations and ‘irrational’ sentiments. The great challenge is to investigate the implications of the latter motives for economics. This course aims to give an intensive introduction into this field. In the first nine sessions of the course the psychology and behavioural economics of judgment and decision-making are dealt with. Basic principles of rationality are compared with actual behaviour in making decisions. Next, students are introduced into the psychological and economic research on subjective well-being (happiness) and its socio-economic determinants (especially income). The importance of this research for economics and its policy implications will be highlighted. Students should realize that the course is not easy and that its material also includes some mathematical derivations."

Course objectives

Acquiring a structured insight into the important roles of psychological factors and processes in the judgments, decision-making and well-being of economic agents Learning about the difference in approach between psychology and economics Learning about the relations between psychology and economics

Prerequisites

Basic understanding of microeconomics (level comparable to: course Economics and Business), probability theory and mathematics (level comparable to course QM2) An advanced level of English

Neurosciences and Law

Full course description

This course introduces students to the new interdisciplinary field of law, neuroscience and philosophy. It uses an integrative approach by addressing the relevancy of potential applications of neuroscience in the fields of both criminal law and civil law. The course aims, inter alia, to assist students in critically reflecting on the present and future possibilities pertaining to the intersection between law and neuroscience. It also explores how neuroscientific research may challenge the foundations and conditions of criminal and civil (tort) liability. The main themes of the course include the following: the neuroscientific challenge to free will and responsibility; the scientific and legal view on human agency and personhood; diagnosing and assessing mental capacities and disabilities; legal decision-making and the use of neurological evidence in court; neuroscience and human rights and finally, the predictive and rehabilitative use of neuroscientific techniques.

This elective is also part of the minor Human and Legal Decision-Making which consists of four complementary courses; neurosciences & law, neuropsychology & law, economic psychology and methodological aspects of studying human and legal decision-making and neurosciences.

Course objectives

Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to:

- understand the basic conditions of criminal and private law liability
- understand the different philosophical positions on the free will and determinism debate
- reflect on the neuroscientific challenges to free will, human agency and legal responsibility;
- understand the relevance of neuroscientific techniques as a diagnostic tool in order to determine mental capacities and disabilities;
- understand how neurosciences can contribute to our knowledge of judicial decision making
- assess the value and limitations of neuroscientific evidence in court cases
- reflect on the value of neuroscientific techniques as a predictive tool for risk assessment
- reflect on the use of neuroscientific techniques (especially direct brain interventions) to modify the brain in order to enhance people’s responsibility
Prerequisites

Although there are no prerequisites for this course, we expect good English language and writing skills. Also, some basic legal knowledge is necessary to understand the main topics of this course. Therefore, in the first week some introductory lectures will be given on the basic concepts of criminal and private law. In addition, students without any knowledge of law are required to study additionally chapters 2, 4, and 6 from J. Hage & B. Akkermans (eds), Introduction to law, Springer, 2014 and chapters 1, 3 and 6 from J. Keiler & D. Roef (eds.), Comparative Concepts of Criminal Law, Cambridge, Intersentia, 2016. This additional literature will be made available in a reader.

Students report spending an average of 12 hours for each session.

Recommended reading

The literature for this course consists of state-of-the-art articles on neurolaw. It is indicated for each session which reading materials should be studied beforehand.

Methodological, Theoretical and Practical Aspects of Research on Human and Legal Decision-Making and Neurosciences

Full course description

This course highlights the significance of collecting empirical evidence on neuroscientific factors and processes relevant for the study of human and legal decision-making. Data is generally collected using various instruments, such as neuropsychological assessments, brain imaging techniques as well as resting heart rate measurement. The acquisition of empirical evidence not only increases one's knowledge about these factors but also reduces the likelihood of reliance on 'neuro-myths'. This course not only discusses these and other techniques of data collection from different perspectives – methodology, applicability and ethical aspects – but also invites the students to work with some of these measurement instruments themselves and collect ‘real data’. Data collection in one way or another is related to models or theories about human and legal decision-making. During the course, several of these ‘models of man’ will be analyzed and confronted with sound evidence from research and with explanatory, theories about the role of neuroscientific factors in legal and human decision-making. Collaboration is foreseen with the WODC – also known as the National Institute for Applied Security and Justice Research – in particular in relation to its work on brain & cognition studies and the neurolaw database.

This elective is also part of the minor Human and Legal Decision-Making which consists of four complementary courses; neurosciences & law, neuropsychology & law, economic psychology and methodological aspects of studying human and legal decision-making and neurosciences.

Course objectives

Upon completion of this course, the student must be able to:

- understand and critically reflect upon neuro-biological/ psychological methods that can be used to study and inform human and legal decision making (processes)
- to work with some of the measurement instruments and collect ‘real data’
- to understand the characteristics, applicability, reliability, validity and ethical aspects of different neuro-biological/psychological methods;
- to critically reflect upon the relationship between models of man, scientific theories and empirical research in this field.

Prerequisites

Although there are no prerequisites for this course, we expect good English language and writing skills. Furthermore, some basic knowledge of psychology, scientific methodology, and of neuroscience is useful to understand the topics of this course. Students who are not acquainted with these subjects are therefore required to study some introductory literature that will be made available during this course.

Recommended reading

The literature for this course consists of state-of-the-art articles on methodological aspects of neuroscientific research.

Full course description
Most of this course pertains to neurocognitive processes of criminal offenders. Contextual factors, such as the history and current state of neuropsychology and psychiatry will be discussed to give students the desired background knowledge of this topic. A considerable part of the course is devoted to neuropsychological abnormalities in offenders who are affected by a psychiatric disorder. Another substantial part of the course pertains to offenders with acquired brain injury. The connection between neural abnormalities and criminal offences will be critically evaluated for each psychiatric or neurological disorder. A completely different side of neuropsychology and law, the effect of neurocognitive disorders in victims/witnesses of crimes on their eyewitness testimony, will also be dealt with.

Course objectives
Knowledge of: Brain structure and function, psychiatric and neurological disorders that predispose to criminal offences, witnesses with brain disorders.
