The background image shows a modern, multi-story glass building at night. The building's interior lights are on, revealing multiple floors of office or laboratory spaces with desks, chairs, and equipment. The building has a distinctive design with large glass panels and a dark frame. In the foreground, there is a green lawn and a paved area. The sky is a deep blue, and some city lights are visible in the distance.

What can you do?

A hallway with eight white doors, each with a black frame and a silver handle. The doors are set into a light gray wall. A large, bright, circular light source is visible at the top of the frame, casting a strong glow. A blue hexagon with a white border is positioned in the upper right area of the hallway, containing the text "What can you do?". The floor is a smooth, light gray surface that reflects the doors and the light.
