4. Without prejudice to the provisions of the first paragraph, in accordance with Article 7.8b(2) WHW, the Faculty Board may issue the study advice to the student so long as the student has not fulfilled the assessment of the programme components relating to the norm of the binding study advice. This option is used only if a conditional positive study advice has been issued.

A negative study advice will be issued to a student in the propaedeutic phase who, at the end of the first year of enrolment as a regular or external student in the propaedeutic phase of the programme, completed fewer than 40 credits of the required programme components of the propaedeutic phase of the programme as listed in Article 10(1) by the end of that year of study.
2. A negative study advice is also issued to a student who was issued a conditional positive study advice referred to in Article 34(3) and has not satisfied the study progress condition included in that advice at the end of the second year of enrolment, namely that the student has obtained at least 40 credits in the propaedeutic phase of the programme as listed in Article 10(1).
3. Before a negative study advice is issued, the student will be offered the opportunity to provide his or her opinion.
4. The negative study advice referred to in paragraphs 1 and 3 will result in the student being refused admission, pursuant to Section 7.8b(3) WHW, to the European Law School bachelor programme only.
5. The refusal of admission referred to in paragraph 5 means that the student is not allowed to register for the European Law School bachelor programme for the next six academic years.

Article 36: Procedure

5. The study advisers are informed of which students are set to receive a negative study advice. The study adviser may advise the Faculty Board, if requested to do so, and may also provide unsolicited advice.
6. After the hearing has been held, the Faculty Board will determine whether to issue the negative study advice. The student concerned is informed in writing or digitally of the decision to issue the negative study advice no later than 1 September
7. A student may lodge an appeal against the negative study advice with the Board of Appeal for Examinations of Maastricht University within six weeks from the date on which the decision was announced.

The student should report this within 14 days of the occurrence of the circumstances.
3. In exceptional cases, where applying the rules concerning the negative study advice would result in the student being disproportionately disadvantaged or in considerable unfairness, the Faculty Board may depart from the set regulations in favour of the student.

CHAPTER 10 – MONITORING STUDY PROGRESS IN RELATION TO RESIDENCE PERMIT

Article 38: Study progress standard

1. In accordance with the Modern Migration Policy Act (Wet modern migratiebeleid), a student with a residence permit for students must earn at least 50% of the credits allotted to an academic year to retain their permit. This requirement does not apply to exchange students and premaster students.
2. The study progress standard is 30 credits for each academic year. In principle, all the credits earned by a student in a year (including exemptions) are taken into account in the determination of the total number of credits.
3. The study progress standard will apply without prejudice to the provisions of Chapter 7 of these Regulations (BSA).
4. The UM is obliged to report to the IND each year if a student has not met the study progress standard. The report on a student's progress made over the past academic year is issued in November of each year.
5. If a student does not meet the 50% study progress standard, they may be eligible to be excused.

Article 39: Grounds for excusability

If the study adviser deems it necessary they can draw up an individual study plan to address the study delay incurred by the personal circumstances. The student should report this within 14 days of the occurrence of the circumstances.
4. In exceptional cases, where applying the rules concerning the study progress standard would result in the student being disproportionately disadvantaged or in considerable unfairness, the Faculty Board may depart from the set regulations in favour of the student.

2. If the study adviser deems it necessary they can draw up an individual study plan to address the study delay incurred by the personal circumstances. The student should report this within 14 days of the occurrence of the circumstances. 7. If the number of credits obtained by a student is 40 or less, a request as referred to in paragraph 2 will only be granted if an unreasonable unforeseen consequences would otherwise arise, whereby inadmissibility as such does not generate such a situation.

Annex 2 – Language of instruction

(notes on Article 7)

Language of instruction

The choice for the language of instruction of the programme is in line with the UM Code of Conduct for Language in accordance with the Dutch Higher Education and Research Act (WHW) Article 7.2.

Because of the specific educational nature and profile of the European Law School Bachelor Programme, teaching and examinations are conducted in English. Conducting this programme in English is necessary to guarantee the quality of education. The use of English as the language of instruction is crucial for the effectiveness of this bachelor's programme, because:

- Maastricht University is based in the Maas-Rhine Euregion with Flemish, Walloon and German cities within a radius of 30 kilometers. The UM Faculty of Law is situated in the center of various European and International institutions such as the European Parliament Council and Commission, the Court of Justice of the European Union and the International Criminal Court. In a region where people both live and work across borders, an international orientation and focus on both European Law and the national law of different European countries is essential.
- South Limburg is a shrinking region where an English-language law programme attracts international students to the Euregion where they can work in both national and international institutions after their studies. The content of the programme contains comparative law - comparing for instance English, French, German and Dutch law, as well as US and South African Law – as well as European Law – including the law of the European Union. A lingua franca to study and compare these fields is needed. We do this in an international classroom setting. With students from all 27 EU member states and from each continent comprising over 75 different nationalities, the way in which these systems are studied and especially discussed, creates a European (and even international) environment.
- The labour market in European and international law demands internationally oriented (English speaking) alumni. European Law School graduates continue their studies to our own Master programmes as well as master programmes at other universities (about 50/50), and end up working for European Institutions, or in companies around the European institutions, international organisations or non-governmental organisations. The language of communication in such organisations is often English. Furthermore, in their work, alumni often have international contacts where the main language is also English.
- The programme contributes to the international positioning of the Netherlands in the field of European law. This programme provides a good basis for top positions within key European and international institutions.
- The academic community is internationally oriented and the staff is international. With over 40% of international staff, this is a truly international working environment which benefits the quality of education. Students and staff work together on research projects (such as MARBLE). Teaching staff all have teaching qualifications (UTQ) and most staff members hold a PhD degree. Positioning itself as an official bilingual university, minimum language requirements in both English and Dutch apply to staff within Maastricht University as a whole. Staff teaching in the bachelor European Law School have at least C1 level English and B1 level Dutch.

Language requirements

Applicants who hold a non-Dutch diploma and meet the pre-education requirements of article 3, may only register for the programme if they have the required level of English, corresponding to an academic IELTS 6.0 at least. Applicants meet this requirement if they have completed:

- secondary education in an EU/EEA country where English was followed up to and including the final year;
- secondary education in a non-EU/EEA country where English is the national language and language of instruction in education;
- a bachelor's or master's programme of which the language of instruction is English;
- an International or European Baccalaureate, a US high school, or UK GCE A-levels;
- secondary education, or a bachelor's or master's programme where the language of instruction is not English, but the applicant is able to demonstrate sufficient proficiency in English, e.g., by English taught courses, (an) internship(s), or work experience in an English environment.

If an applicant does not meet one of the abovementioned requirements, the applicant will be recommended to submit proof of having passed one of the following language test certificates (or similar accredited certification):

- IELTS with a score of at least 6.0;
- TOEFL with a score of at least 550 (paper-based), or 80 (internet-based);
- TOEIC listening and reading (670) and speaking and writing (290);
- Cambridge [First Certificate in English (FCE) Grade B (scale 173-175), First Certificate in English (FCE) Grade C (scale 169-172)].

The application can be rejected or additional requirements can be set if there are reasonable doubts about English language proficiency.
